

Welcome to the Faculty of Business Administration

UR Business advising and support staff team.

Academic advisors are available in all faculties/colleges at the University of Regina. We are here to assist with your success as a university student. Academic advisors provide invaluable information regarding your academic program, and connect you to other student services available on campus that may help you become a more successful and confident student. We are your first stop when you have questions or problems in a class, if you are finding it difficult to balance your work-school-personal lives, or if you just need a friendly ear. Certainly we can assist with course selection, but more importantly we are your connection to the university system.

Group advising sessions will be held closer to your registration date. Information about the dates and times of these sessions will be sent to you by mail and/or email as that date approaches. These sessions will review key pieces of information that will help you understand university expectations, introduce you to key services on campus, and ensure that the classes you want to take are appropriate for your degree program and your long-term educational goals. Individual advising sessions can also be arranged if all of your questions are not addressed at the group sessions.

The Faculty of Business Administration is committed to the success of our students and the advancement of the greater community.

Our advising and support staff are skilled at providing the best support for our students, and our faculty draws upon their rich and varied research to create a one-of-a-kind learning experience with impact. We have built a reputation for excellence in student achievement, with graduates who are able to think across business functions and hit the ground running.

Advisor Suggestions/Recommendations:

- BUS 100 is a pre-requisite to most other BUS courses. Take it in your first or second semester.
- Most students take CS 100 - Introduction to Computers. CS 100 is the easier of these two options. If you prefer CS 110 - Programming & Problem Solving, that is also an acceptable choice; however, please note that CS 110 requires some Math pre-requisites, and is a bit more difficult.
- Students often find it easier to manage their course load if they split up the required MATH and STAT courses. We suggest you take one each in two different semesters.
- Students usually find ECON 201/202 easier if they take ECON 100 first. ECON 100 will count as one of your three required Introductory Courses from Faculty of Arts List A or B. We also suggest that students do not take ECON 201 and 202 in the same semester.
- Faculty of Arts List A & B include the following subjects: Anthropology, Catholic Studies, Classical Studies, Economics, English, Environmental Studies, Geography, Health Studies, History, Humanities, Indian Health Studies, Indigenous Studies, Intercultural Leadership, Interdisciplinary Studies, International Studies, Linguistics, Philosophy, Political Science, Prairie Studies, Psychology, Religious Studies, Science and Technology Studies, Social Studies, Sociology, Women and Gender Studies, and a variety of Language courses (i.e., French, German, Korean, Japanese, Spanish, etc.)
- Introductory courses are those which require no prior university education. Beyond Introductory courses are those which have university-level prerequisites.

Subject to change – program admission averages are reviewed and set annually by the Faculty of Business Administration.

First Year Courses

A full course load is 5 courses per semester (or 10 courses per year).

Taking a full course load will ensure that you complete your degree in 4 years; however, this is not mandatory. Many first year students take 4 courses in their first semester. We can help determine the best option for you and your situation.

These are the required and recommended first year courses for all Bachelor of Business Administration programs.
