Course Information

Course objectives

GBUS 844 introduces students to the practices, theories, concepts, and historical accounts of labour-management relations in Canada from the perspective of employees and employers. By the end of the course students will possess an understanding of:

1. Labour relations legislation, specifically the Saskatchewan Employment Act
2. Current political and legal developments in labour-management relations
3. How labour-management relations function in the public and private sectors
4. Methods used by unions and management in resolving rights and interest disputes
5. The union certification process
6. Collective bargaining and negotiations
7. Grievance and arbitration processes
8. Implications court decisions for workers, employers, and unions

Resources

Readings

GD John Godard (2011) Industrial relations, the economy, and society (4th ed.) Captus Press. The text was selected because of its relatively inexpensive cost, comprehensiveness, and depth. GD will provide a foundation for the concepts and theories we discuss in lecture.

SEA Saskatchewan Employment Act. Available on UR Courses.

Additional readings will be assigned for the course and posted UR Courses. A detailed list can be found below. Our class discussions will be based primarily on these readings.

Readings must be completed by the time class begins on Monday, August 7.

Content

In addition to conventional lectures and discussion, the course will include documentary film(s) and guest lectures by labour-management relation professionals who represent the side of unions/employees and management. The purpose of guest lectures is to introduce students to policy makers and professionals working in the field.

UR Courses

UR Courses will be used to post additional course readings and information, such as lecture slides, when available.
Class contribution & discussion questions (questions due August 1) 15%
Research paper (due August 25) 30%
Collective bargaining exercise: Strategy report (August 18) 15%
Collective bargaining exercise: Memorandum of agreement (August 18) 10%
Collective bargaining exercise: Negotiation process (August 18) 15%
Short essay (July 14) 15%

At the graduate level class contribution is a must. This does not mean you need to have an answer or comment for every issue discussed in class. Class contribution is assessed based on the quality and thoughtfulness of your questions and discussion points. For example:

- Citing relevant personal examples
- Debating and disagreement with the instructor and peers in a professional and collegial manner
- Working with others in and outside of the classroom
- Listening with an open mind and responding to what others have to say

The collective bargaining exercise is a centerpiece of GBUS 844. Students will be divided into Management and Union teams. Your job is to get the best deal you can in the upcoming negotiations given your mandate. You will use the concepts from this course to prepare for bargaining and to negotiate with the other side. Collective bargaining cases will be distributed on the first day of class.

The research essay may cover any number of issues, debates, legislation, or rulings related to labour-management relations that are addressed in the course. Please consult the “GBUS 844: Writing Assignment Guide” for further instructions. Papers must be 12-15 pages in length.

Topics must be cleared with the instructor no later than August 18. You are encouraged to consult with the instructor at any point before course start date.

The short essay must cover one of the assigned readings or films, as per the “GBUS 844: Writing Assignment Guide” instructions. Papers must be 4-5 pages in length and must be submitted through UR Courses no later than July 14.

The core principles of academic integrity – honesty, trust, fairness, respect and responsibility – should be at the forefront for all of the activities you do as a student and as a professional.

It is your responsibility to understand the university’s policies on academic integrity and misconduct. Academic misconduct is a very serious issue with potential consequences ranging from failure in the course to dismissal from the university. Academic misconduct is defined broadly as any act that violates the rights of another student in academic work or that involves misrepresentation of your own work. A breach of academic integrity will be dealt with in a manner consistent with the policies of the University of Regina. Cases of academic misconduct will be forwarded to the Associate Dean (Graduate Studies) without exception.

University of Regina policies can be found on-line:
http://www.uregina.ca/presoff/secretary/disciplinecommittee.shtml

This course involves discussion, class exercises, and guest lecturers. Every class requires your active participation. It is expected that you will have completed the assigned readings prior to class.
Personal technology

I understand that there are pedagogical reasons for laptops to be used in class. You are encouraged to use your laptop in ways that will enhance, and not detract from, your classroom experience and the experience of those around you. Cell phones, smartphones, etc., should never be used during class and you will be asked to put them away. Do I text when you are speaking? No.

Grades and grading

I am happy to answer any questions about grading and your assignments, but please note that grades are not negotiable. If you feel that an assignment has received an unfair grade, you are expected to make a case for why it should be re-assessed. This involves a written submission (a paragraph or two) and taking the time to meet with the instructor to talk about the assignment. You should consider that grades could go down upon review.

Medical notes are required for students who fail to hand in assignments on-time and/or are unable to write exams during the scheduled time and date. You will automatically be assigned a zero on missed exams and assignments without proper documentation and reason.

Centre for Student Accessibility

If students have any special needs that could impact their performance, the instructor must be made aware of this at the beginning of term. Students are encouraged to consult with the Centre for Student Accessibility for information regarding relevant policies and assistance programs http://www.uregina.ca/studserv/disability/servicesavailable.shtml.

TEACHING PHILOSOPHY & EXPECTATIONS

Professionalism

Students and instructors both come to class with ideas about topic issues and expectations of appropriate conduct. Regardless of your point of view on the subjects addressed in class, it is important to be mindful of the need to ask questions and to make comments in a manner that respects everyone – fellow students, instructors, and guests. There is no reason to interrupt others when they are speaking or to make personal remarks. Talking out of turn or interrupting the class with private conversations is equally inappropriate. It is also important to acknowledge the right of everyone to be in an environment free from discrimination and harassment. If you are unsure about what constitutes discrimination or harassment, please see the Saskatchewan Human Rights Commission website http://www.shrc.gov.sk.ca or visit the University of Regina’s Human Resources page http://www.uregina.ca/hr/services/harassment-prevention/resources.html.

Teaching philosophy & expectations

I have developed my teaching around three guiding philosophies: (1) the importance of drawing from theories, concepts, grounded research, and practices in the classroom; (2) including multiple political and academic perspectives in developing lectures and facilitating class discussion; (3) actively engaging with course material to provoke reflection and the development of original insights.

In my view the classroom is a place to facilitate student participation and discussion, as well as a lecture platform. We all have our own political and academic viewpoints, which are to be respected as well as open to debate. I take what you say seriously. Because this is a university course, you will be expected to think through the theories, concepts, policies, and practices as aspiring practitioners and scholars.
