COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed to develop students' management skills through an exploration of the theory and practice involved in managing people. The emphasis is on understanding individual, team, and organizational factors and the processes through which they influence behaviour and performance, with a view to improving managerial effectiveness.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES / OUTCOMES

Students will:

- Understand individual-level processes that are core to behavior (personality, learning).
- Understand emergent group-level processes in the workplace.
- Understand and support individuals and teams in pursuing organizational goals.
- Understand and apply modern behavioural science and leadership theories that enhance human motivation, satisfaction, performance, and development to achieve organizational goals.
- Be able to understand and refine their own leadership style.
- Identify organizational factors to support performance.
- Appreciate the need for a data-driven, evidence-based approach to management; make more effective, thoughtful, and evidence-based decisions.

COURSE EXPECTATIONS

This course will entail a combination of lectures, activities, readings discussions, and cases. As a result, regular attendance in class and active participation in classroom activities are required. Students are expected to prepare in advance for class and be able to participate in class discussions.

COURSE MATERIALS

1. Harvard Business Publishing Cases – The cases will be charged to your student account.
2. Links for a set of journal articles will be posted on UR Courses.

The course materials are intended for the students' use only. Students should not further reproduce or redistribute course materials to any persons or websites outside the course.

COURSE EVALUATION

Grades will be determined based on the following components:

Component	Weight	Due date
Individual assignment (2 @ 10% each)	20%	11:59 p.m. February 29
Group symposium	20%
Group case report	20%	11:59 p.m. April 11
Final exam	25%	April 18
Participation in class	15%

1. Individual assignment: 2 @ 10%=20%

The instructions of individual assignments will be discussed in classes held on January 18 and February 15. Please ensure you attend these classes. The page-limit of each individual assignment is 4-6 pages (double-spaced, not including graphs and other appendices). The two assignments should be submitted on UR Courses by 11:59 p.m. February 28.

2. Group symposium: 20%

In our first class, students will form 4 groups. Symposia will be held in class on February 29, March 7, March 14, and March 21

Tasks for leading groups: Leading groups will present the assigned reading and lead discussions on the weekly topic and reading on February 29, March 7, March 14, and March 21. This assignment provides the opportunity for in-depth learning on a topic of interest to group members. The presentation should include:

- The key points in the reading(s)
- Identify interesting ideas raised in the article(s)
- An evaluation of the papers
- Present real business application

Groups should be prepared to creatively engage their fellow students in a dialogue regarding the assigned readings. Audience groups will evaluate the symposium. Meanwhile, you have the right to evaluate the participation level of your audience by nominating the best participants in your symposium. Please read "GBUS817 - Group Symposium Instructions and Evaluation Criteria" on UR Courses for more details.

Tasks for non-leading groups: Non-leading groups must evaluate the leading groups weekly using the provided form in the "Group Symposium" section on UR Courses. Each non-leading group should submit three forms in total (excluding their own group) by March 25, 2024, 11:59 p.m. The evaluation must include rankings for the groups and list at least three strengths and three weaknesses for each symposium. Failure to adhere to these rules will result in a 50% penalty on your group symposium grade. (e.g., a group symposium with 40 marks will be penalized 20 marks).

3. Group case report: 20%

Groups will be given the task to analyze a case and write a report with your solution to the case questions and/or problem(s). The page-limit of the case report is 10 pages (double-spaced, not including graphs and other appendices). The group case report should be submitted on UR Courses by 11:59 p.m. April 11.

4. Final exam: 25%

The final exam information will be discussed on April 4 in class. The format of the exam is essay and short answer questions. Please note: The final exam grade must exceed passing grade level (i.e., 70%) for a student to pass the class.

5. Participation in class: 15%

Class discussion and interaction are a crucial part of our synthesis of the material and learning. It is therefore vital that you come to every class prepared and ready to contribute to discussions, including discussing cases and the papers that are presented by your classmates. Excellent participation includes actively asking or answering questions, raising original ideas, demonstrating critical thinking (e.g., constructively criticizing articles discussed in class), making constructive comments on issues raised by the instructor or other students, bringing to the attention of the class relevant items of interest from the media or personal experiences, and having a positive attitude toward learning.

Your participation mark will be determined based on your level of involvement in the class and the quality of your contributions to class discussion. Your participation level will be evaluated by the symposium leading group and the instructor. The times you are nominated as the best participant will influence your participation marks. Please read "GBUS817- Class Participation Scoring Rubric" on UR Courses for more details.

Peer Evaluation At the end of the term, each student will have the opportunity to complete a group member evaluation form, in which they will assess the contributions of other group members to their group's overall functioning. These evaluations will be completed independently from other group members and will be kept confidential from them. None of the students will have access to these forms after the submission. Although most of the time individual group members will receive the same final grade on the group assignments, the instructor reserves the right to adjust individual grades downward if it is determined that certain individuals' contributions to the group were inadequate (e.g., an average of below '4' from the majority of peers in their group).

MISSED EXAM AND ASSIGNMENT POLICY

Final exam: Students unable to write the final exam because of illness or other circumstances beyond their control may apply for permission to write a deferred examination. Students will need to submit an Application for Deferral of Course Work and/or Final Exam with supporting documentation within three days of the scheduled exam. The decision (approved or denied deferral) is made by Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research (FGSR). Requests for deferral received more than two (2) weeks after the final day of the examination period will be denied. The deferral form can be found on the FGSR website at:

<https://www.uregina.ca/gradstudies/forms.html>

Assignment: The penalty for late in-semester assignments (individual assignments and group case report) is 10% per day. No assignments will be accepted beyond 5 days late (unless accompanied by a legitimate reason). Beyond 5 days late, a grade of zero will be assigned. If you miss an assignment deadline for a legitimate reason (illness, bereavement) you must notify the instructor via email within 48 hours of the missed deadline to provide proper documentation and to discuss extension possibilities. Extensions to assignment deadlines (without penalty) may be permitted under some conditions (see below).

Extenuating circumstances and documentation: Please plan your schedule in advance to ensure that you are able to meet the required deadlines. If students experience serious illness, death in the family, or other extenuating circumstances they may apply for extensions on assignments or deferred final exam. Situations that do not qualify are being busy, not feeling 100%, or having other exams or assignments due on the same day. While in some cases self-declarations will be appropriate documentation, other forms of documentation may be required to schedule a deferral for the final exam.

REMARKING

From time to time, students have legitimate concerns about marks they have received on a piece of work submitted. It is important to understand that you do have recourse if you feel that any paper handed back to you has not been marked appropriately for the work you have submitted. If you ever feel this way during this course, you must embark upon the following procedure within one week of the grade being posted on UR Courses:

- 1) Indicate in writing specifically what your concern(s) is (are). This does not mean that you simply say "I think I deserve more marks." You must clearly indicate where the marker made a mistake in his/her marking of the paper. In this regard, you must refer to the class notes, excerpt in the references, etc., supporting your claim.
- 2) After completing #1 above, you must submit the paper with your comments back to the instructor within one week of the grade being posted on UR Courses. If you did not check the mark on UR Courses, you still have only one week from the original grade release date to request a remark.
- 3) If a paper is not resubmitted following the above guidelines, the instructor will regard the mark as originally assigned to be final. No marks will be changed at a later date.

No make-up activity or assignment can be undertaken in order to improve course marks. It is important to note that the instructor reserves the right to remark the entire paper in question and to either leave the mark as is or to change it positively or negatively as required.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Academic integrity is expected of all students taking business courses at all times. The Hill and Levene Student Code of Professional & Ethical Conduct (which all students are expected to sign) includes three commitments concerning academic integrity. Each of these commitments is discussed further below:

"Every exam or quiz that I write will be done with honesty and integrity, following all University and instructor requirements" (Hill and Levene Schools of Business, n.d., p. 1). Students must ensure that what is submitted in an exam or quiz is entirely their own work in accordance with the rules of the exam/quiz. Not doing so is cheating. Examples of exam cheating include: copying (or attempting to copy) the work of another student; bringing any kind of unauthorized material or device into an exam/quiz; communicating with another student during an exam; or helping another student cheat (see University of Regina, 2022, p. 49).

"Every assignment that I submit for University of Regina classes will be my own work, or in the case of group submissions, the work of my group members" (Hill and Levene Schools of Business, n.d., p. 1)

Cheating on an assignment is a situation where a student receives or gives unauthorized information/help to aid in its completion. Examples can include copying the work of another student in an assignment; using an existing solution to an assignment question (or similar question) as a basis for answering an assignment question; or collaborating with another student in completing an assignment where collaboration is not specifically allowed (see University of Regina, 2022, pp. 49-50).

“Every paper, report, reflection, journal, or other similar work that I submit will properly acknowledge the source of ideas contained therein” (Hill and Levene Schools of Business, n.d., p. 1). This commitment concerns the avoidance of plagiarism. Plagiarism is a risk in the specific situation where students are allowed/expected to use other sources in a term paper or similar assignment; plagiarism occurs when a student has failed to acknowledge those sources using an appropriate method of citation. To avoid plagiarism, students must ensure that every item of information that has been paraphrased or quoted from another source includes acknowledgement of that source using within-text citation; full information about the source should be also provided in the document (typically the full information is contained in a reference list at the end of the document). In addition, any passage that has been taken word-for-word from another source (i.e., quoted) must be enclosed in quotation marks. In the case where the quoted material is lengthy, an indented block quotation form can be used as a substitute for quotation marks.

Additional examples of academic misconduct can be found in the University of Regina Undergraduate Calendar under the heading Acts of Academic Misconduct. As academic misconduct is a serious offence, the penalties are severe. A first offence typically results in a zero on the exam or assignment, and further instances of academic misconduct can result in a zero or XF in the course and/or suspension or expulsion.

When should you go?

Knowing when to schedule an appointment can be tough. Some common issues you might need help with include test anxiety, if you've experienced a trauma like losing a family member or a close friend, or if you've recently ended a relationship.

Group Counselling – Simply put, you're not alone. Many students are experiencing the same things as you. The U of R offers a wide variety of group counselling opportunities that can help teach many skills for managing your mental health, including: Meditation and relaxation, Healthy relationships, Stress Management and Self-Care.

But I can't afford counselling...

Seeking counselling doesn't have to be cost prohibitive. Many students can benefit from the 5 free sessions offered by the University as a benefit of being a student.

If you need more sessions make sure you contact URSU and visit www.IHaveAPlan.ca. Many expenses that are related to mental health, including going to a psychologist, are partially covered by your Student Health and Dental Plan!

What else can I do?

Self-care - taking better care of yourself, can help you out. Eating better, working out, smoking and drinking less and balancing school with fun can all help with mental health!
