

LIFELONG LEARNING CENTRE FALL 2022

The Lifelong Learning Centre (LLC) is part of the University of Regina Centre for Continuing Education (CCE) which has made it possible for adults to explore new interests and meet new friends since 1977. Our programs are open to all regardless of previous levels of education and have no age limits. There are no exams or grades to worry about, and most courses have no homework.

These learning opportunities are provided in partnership with University of Regina faculties and community partners. Our instructors are experts in their fields who are passionate about sharing their knowledge and expertise. Fees are modest and some presentations are free, like the monthly Wellness Wednesdays, thanks to the Seniors University Group and other agencies.

BONNY MANZ

"I started taking Lifelong Learning courses shortly after retiring in 2016. I started out slowly, with some film and line dancing classes, along with a number of lunchtime sessions. After enjoying those, I decided it was time to get my brain working. Having struggled with Social Studies in school, I decided to exercise my brain and signed up to my first course with Dr. Clay Burlingham. I also began taking classes in other fields, including science, religion and whatever else looked interesting shortly after. I have found the professors and instructors to be excellent. Although Zoom worked not too badly, being back in-person has also meant easier social connections. Lifelong learning is important, and I hope to continue taking classes for many years to come."

CHRIS BAILEY

"I have been a regular enrollee in LLC courses since I retired five years ago. Over the years I have come to expect, and get, a level of instruction that is consistently high. More recently I have been impressed with how the LLC handled the pandemic and were able to deliver a high-quality virtual experience. Pandemic, or not, each semester there is a wide range of subjects to choose from, ranging from the informative, the fun through to the practical. Over the years, I have learnt more about treaties, the history of Christianity, current Middle East affairs, beer, the night sky, the chemistry of food, and the ins and outs of stand-up comedy, story telling and creative writing. And so much more. There really is something for everyone."

LIFELONG LEARNING MATTERS

Every fall people return to school to learn new and exciting subjects, including adults who come to the Lifelong Learning Centre. Since 1977 the Lifelong Learning Centre has been a great place to learn and to make new friends. Join us to celebrate our 45th anniversary at the Fall Open House on September 8. LLC instructors, students and staff will be there to let you know what we have to offer and why you should participate. You can learn a new language, get or remain physically active, write your life story, learn about world politics and history, including that of Russia, the Middle East and Latin America. We have something for everyone, including you!

RETURN TO COLLEGE BUILDING

The Lifelong Learning Centre, like the rest of the University of Regina and the world, are learning how to safely and responsibly live with COVID-19. This fall there will be a transition to more in-person courses and presentations. Some will have a Zoom option and others will be entirely via Zoom. We look forward to seeing new and returning learners at the College Building for in-person courses this fall and others on Zoom.

NEW FOR FALL

Courses and presentations this fall include new and interesting topics with most being offered in-person and some via Zoom. You can learn about Canadian mining projects in Ecuador with Paulina Larreátegui, understand more about the National Film Board and Canadian Society with Michael Dancsok, or explore Nonviolent Communication with Dr. Muhammad Asadullah. New evening courses include a monthly writing course with Kristen McLeod, and a short course on Holiday Wines and Appetizers with Chef Rob and Wine Specialist Greg Harasen.

CONNECTING AND LEARNING

LLC is offering more in-person learning opportunities this fall including Coffee & Conversation and Forever In Motion on Thursday afternoons. Coffee & Conversation is a weekly opportunity to learn about community programs and services from guest presenters, LLC staff and Seniors' University Group members. Forever In Motion is a weekly program facilitated by trained volunteers to help you improve or maintain your health, including endurance, strength, balance and flexibility. See Courses at a Glance on page 3 for an overview of all fall courses.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Fall courses cover current social concerns, history, art, language, literature, fitness and more. Dr. Ray Cleveland leads students in engaging discussions about the Middle East, Dr. Clay Burlingham on European history, Linda Quigley on art history of the Italian Renaissance, Don Black on Regina's historical architecture, Sheila Bonneteau on gardening practices and techniques, and Chris Beckett on astronomy and understanding the night sky. You can also learn to write and share stories with a weekly writing group or two monthly writing group options – one daytime and one evening. Certified Wine Expert, Greg Harasen, is offering his foundational course on Wines of World, and a shorter course on Canadian Wines. You can learn a language – French, Spanish or Ukrainian, or improve your health by learning about Ageless Grace with Alison Singharath or by practicing Yoga for All with Lani Knaus.

JOIN SENIORS UNIVERSITY GROUP

If you are 50+ you can join the Seniors University Group – or renew your membership – to get discounts on daytime LLC courses. SUG members can use University of Regina Library and borrow books at no charge. They also receive information about courses, free forum and invitations to special events, like the International Volunteer Day and Christmas Celebration being held on December 1 at 1:30pm with carol singing, treats and more to celebrate our 45th Anniversary. SUG Members who need assistance to cover course fees at LLC are eligible to apply for a SUG Bursary to take one course for $10 or $20 this fall. For more information about SUG and the SUG Bursary see our webpage or call 306-585-5766.

COMPASSIONATE COMMUNICATION

Learning to communicate with the intention of connection does not always come naturally, but these skills can be learned! Dr. Muhammad Asadullah is offering a course so you can learn and practice the four key components of compassionate communication: observation, feelings, needs and requests. Focus will also be on learning to give and receive empathy and integrating nonviolent communication in daily life.

A CASE STUDY OF ECUADOR

Paulina Larreátegui will be leading a course to examine Canadian Mining projects in Latin America with a particular focus on Ecuador. This course will be of interest to those who enjoy learning about transnational social, political and economic issues, how international corporate practices affect local communities and how local communities respond.

HOLIDAY WINES & APPETIZERS

Get creative this holiday season and learn unique hosting and dining ideas with Chef Rob Harrison and Certified Wine Specialist Greg Harasen. One class will focus exclusively on holiday wines for gifting and pairing with special holiday meals. The second class will be three hours of virtual cooking along with Chef Rob to prepare special holiday appetizers. Register yourself and have up to five friends join you for this course!

NFB and Canadian Society

Michael Dancsok will lead a course on the National Film Board that will analyze and critique how the NFB has played a role in creating a vision of Canada. Past and current films will be considered thematically including topics of work, education, First Nations, the climate and more.

LIFELONG LEARNING CENTRE - COURSES AT A GLANCE

You must register in advance for all courses and presentations you would like to attend including those that are free. Once you register you will receive important information about how to participate in presentations and courses. For courses offered via Zoom we have free training for those who are new to LLC or those who want a refresher in how to use Zoom or UR Community formerly CCE Community.
