

Information for Newcomer Students

University of Regina

YOUR PATH TO SUCCESS AT THE U OF R

The University of Regina welcomes students who are new to Canada. We are committed to helping you succeed with a well-rounded educational experience, hands-on learning, and personalized support. For flexibility, we offer evening, weekend, and online courses, along with support services.

If you are a Canadian citizen, Permanent Resident of Canada, or refugee who has previously studied outside of Canada, the information in this document applies to you. You are a domestic student and will pay domestic student tuition and fee rates.

If you plan to study on a student visa, you are an international student and apply through the UR International Office. For information, please visit: <https://www.uregina.ca/international/>

If you are interested in a Masters or PhD program, you will apply through Graduate Studies. For information, please visit: <https://www.uregina.ca/graduate-studies-research/>

FUNDING YOUR EDUCATION

When it comes to funding your university education, we advise you to start planning as early as possible and explore all available options.

Scholarships, Awards, and Bursaries: There are numerous opportunities available for undergraduate studies in every program and year of study! We can assist you with the application process through our Student Awards Management System (SAMS).

Government Financial Assistance (Student Loans): Saskatchewan residents can apply for federal and provincial student loans and grants.

Co-operative Education and Internships: Many programs offer career-related, paid work term options, allowing you to gain valuable work experience and help finance your education.

As a newcomer myself, I highly recommend the University of Regina. The welcoming environment made for a smooth transition to university life. My journey at U of R is not just about academics - by becoming a U of R Ambassador and being a part of various clubs and societies, I have met lifelong friends, and experienced growth and diverse experiences. Just as I found my place, you can also flourish at the University of Regina.
