DAVE MARGOSHES

By SHIN JA KIM
APRIL 2005

Dave Margoshes was born in the United States and attended school in New York City and in New Jersey. From the University of Iowa he received a Bachelor of Arts and a Masters degree in Fine Arts.

He moved to Canada in the 1970s and worked for a variety of newspapers in Vancouver and Calgary, at Mount Royal College and the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology he taught journalism and was writer-in-residence in Winnipeg in 1995–96, and in Saskatoon in 2001–02. Dave Margoshes has given readings across the country and in 1986 he moved to Saskatchewan where he taught creative writing at the University of Regina.

Margoshes is the author of novels such as Drowning Man and I'm Frankie Sterne; a novella called We Who Seek: A Love Story; short story collections Fables of Creation, Long Distance Calls, Nine Lives, and Small Regrets. His collection of poetry include Purity of Absence, Northwest Passages, and Walking at Brighton; he is also the author of a book called Tommy Douglas: Building the New Society and of a junior high school resource book, used in both Canadian and American schools, called Discover Canada: Saskatchewan, part of Grolier's Discover Canada series.

Dave Margoshes' stories have appeared in numerous anthologies and four times in the Best Canadian Stories volumes, dozens of magazines in Canada and the U.S. and have also been broadcast on CBC.

He received the Saskatchewan Writers Guild Volunteer Award in 2000 for helping to organize the Saskatchewan Book Awards, (he was the first chairman for this event). He has also won several awards for poetry.

Dave Margoshes currently lives in Regina.
