REPORT TO
EXECUTIVE OF COUNCIL
25 October 2017

FROM THE SENATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

1. ITEM FOR INFORMATION

1.1 September Graduand Lists

BACKGROUND:

Seven graduation applications for the Fall 2017 Convocation were approved in the system but missed on the report for Executive Council on September 27, 2017. The students have completed their program requirements in time to be considered for the Fall 2017 Convocation.

An email ballot, along with the graduand list, was sent out to the Senate Executive Committee on 6 October 2017 asking the Committee to consider approving the list.

The following motion was approved:

Moved that the Senate approves the following graduands from the Faculty of Nursing, whose names are appended to the official file, having satisfied the requirements, be granted the degrees as designated.

This is to confirm that the Senate Executive Committee approved the graduand lists and will report the results as an information item at the October Executive of Council meeting and the October Senate meeting.

13 October 2017
The Council Committee on Research met 4 times during this period fulfilling the role of providing recommendations to the VPR. A Summary of the Decision Items and Information Items brought forward to Executive Council follow along with sum of the other activities of the committee.

Summary of Decision Items forwarded to Executive of Council:

1. The Strategic Research Plan 2016-21 was approved by Executive of Council on September 28, 2016. See https://www.uregina.ca/research/strategic-research-plan.html.
2. The SaskPower Clean Energy Chair was approved by Executive of Council on September 28, 2016.
3. The Institute for Microbial Systems and Society(IMSS), a new Faculty-based research institute, was approved by Executive of Council on November 23, 2016.

Summary of Information Items forwarded to Executive of Council as:

Summary of other activities:

3. CCR approved a proposal for the internal distribution of the University’s John Evans Leadership Fund allocation. This document will be used by the CCR subcommittee that reviews internal proposals and makes strategic decisions regarding usage of the CFI envelope.
1. ITEMS FOR APPROVAL

The Council Committee on Undergraduate Admissions and Studies met on October 5, 2017, and has approved the following curriculum, program and regulation changes, and hereby recommends them for approval.

1.1 Undergraduate Transfer Credit Policy

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Motion 1: To approve the Undergraduate Transfer Credit Policy, as outlined in Attachment A.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Effective date: 201830</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(End of Motion 1)

Background:

The Undergraduate Transfer Credit Policy has undergone an extensive consultation process prior to being brought to the University’s governance committees for approval.

Highlights of the policy include:

- The current published information has been brought into a formal policy document. This will make future iterations easier to manage and maintain.
- Definitions have been added.
- Institutional recognition has been updated to reflect current practice.
- Language has been introduced on the applicability of transfer credit that aligns with the Pan-Canadian Protocol on Transferability of University Credits.
- The requirement for students from schools with a minimum passing grade of 60% to have a grade of 68% or higher grade for the transferability of credits was removed.
- Language about stale dating has been introduced.
- Language and process on formal agreements has been introduced.
- Language about triangulation has been introduced.
- Language on current process has been modified for clarity.
An appeals process has been introduced.

Edits and modifications to the policy document as a result of consultation include:

- A change to the language that referenced Bible Colleges.
- Additional language in relation to the minimum GPA requirements a student must meet on admission to the U of R.
- Addition of LV (level) credit to reflect U of R practice and including reference to unspecified XX credits to reflect the more common national practice of unspecified credit recognition.
- Removing statements about misconduct in the Failure to Declare Attendance section.
- A statement on the practice related to transfer credit and a student with a MW status.
- A statement on the practice related to transfer credit and students who have been suspended or expelled.
- Inclusion of a table that indicates the stale dating practices at the U of R.
- A section on Letter of Permission.
- The addition of language to include an informal stage in the appeals process.

Introduction

Transfer credit refers to the recognition of the successful completion of post-secondary credits taken at other recognized post-secondary institutions. Transfer credit may be awarded on the basis of the evaluation of a course (course by course), a series of courses (two or more courses equivalent to one course), or a block of courses (a group of courses equivalent to a specified number of credit hours).

The University of Regina (U of R) will recognize coursework completed at the undergraduate level for transfer credit for courses that are deemed to be at the university level from all eligible institutions. Transfer credit awards will only be applied to a student’s chosen program if they meet the minimum transfer grade point average (GPA) and grade requirements of the Faculty or Academic Unit and only to the maximum credit hours allowable under the published regulations for admission and/or degree completion. Students must complete the residency requirements of their chosen program.

Courses taken at the undergraduate level will not be recognized for graduate level transfer credit and courses taken at the graduate level will not be recognized for transfer credit at the undergraduate level.
Definitions

- Articulation Agreement – A signed agreement between the U of R and another institution(s) that specifies the amount of credits granted for prior studies at the partner institution(s) and the number of credit hours required to complete a U of R credential. These Agreements can also be between professional organizations and the U of R. Articulation Agreements can be one-way or reciprocal.

- Block Transfer – Refers to a form of transfer credit. Credit is awarded by the U of R on the basis of total hours or credits completed, rather than for individual courses. Students are then admitted to a specific point of a U of R program. A block transfer arrangement is normally formalized through an Articulation Agreement.

- Course Outline – A document that normally includes information about the content of a course, the learning objectives, learning outcomes, assessment methods, textbooks and other learning materials, and instructor credentials. A course outline is also known as a course syllabus.

- Credit Hours – The unit used for measuring educational credit, usually based on the number of classroom hours per week throughout a term. Students are awarded credit for classes on the basis of the Carnegie unit. This defines a semester unit of credit as equal to a minimum of three hours of work per week for a term.

- GPA – A grade point average (GPA) is an average of numeric grades, adjusted for variations in the credit hours that are assigned to the courses in which the average is based. GPAs are calculated at the U of R for each term (Term GPA – TGPA), for a student’s program (Program GPA – PGPA), and for a student’s whole academic record (Undergraduate GPA – UGPA, and Cumulative GPA – CGPA).

- Program – A prescribed set of courses and other completion requirements that lead to the award of a credential. Programs normally take the form of a certificate, a diploma, or a degree.

- Residency Requirement – The required number of credit hours a student must successfully complete from the U of R to be awarded their chosen credential.

- Stale Dating – The practice of reviewing the date in which a course was taken to ensure currency.

- Transfer Credit – The recognition of the successful completion of post-secondary credits taken at other recognized post-secondary institutions or approved organizations.

- Transfer Credit Map – A document which lists the courses students completed, and how each transfers from other institutions. It can be created for student use or for developing articulation agreements and transfer pathways.

- Triangulation – The formal recognition of either an institution or a course based on the decision to recognize such by another recognized institution who is a member of Colleges and Institutes Canada, Universities Canada, a recognized international credential assessment service, or a provincial council/committee that oversees transfer credit (i.e.; Alberta Council on Admissions and Transfer).
Policy

Transfer Credit Eligibility

To be eligible for transfer credit consideration, coursework must be taken at a post-secondary institution where one or more of the following conditions are satisfied.

- A Canadian institution that is a member of Colleges and Institutes Canada or Universities Canada.
- A Canadian institution that is affiliated with a Universities Canada member institution, or accredited by the Association of Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) or the Association of Theological Schools (ATS).
- An institution from the USA that is a member of a regional accreditation body as recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA).
- An institution outside of Canada or the USA that has been approved by its country's approved authority for education as determined by the U of R's Enrolment Services Admissions Unit or; the UR International's Admissions Unit or; by the Registrar or; by a qualified international qualifications assessment service.
- Courses taken at a Quebec CEGEP beyond the minimum 12 years (excluding Physical Education) required for admission.

Other recognized coursework includes:

- some courses through the College Board's Advanced Placement examinations;
- some courses through the International Baccalaureate program;
- some courses through the Cambridge International A Level program.

Recognition of Credit Hours

The recognition of credit hours for a U of R course should be the same as the credit hours presented. In some cases, the recognition of credit hours may be less than what is presented. For example, it may be determined that the combination of two 3 credit hour courses are equivalent to one 3 credit hour course at the U of R.

Transfer Credit Grades

Transfer credit grades are used to determine the eligibility of transfer but do not count toward a student's GPA.
The Application of Transfer Credit to a Student Record

Applicants must meet the minimum admission requirements of the program to which they are applying. Awarded transfer credit will only be applied to a student’s program if:

- the transfer course meets the minimum grade requirement of the Faculty or Academic Unit; and
- the transfer course fits the published regulations of the applicant’s chosen program.

Specified and Unspecified Transfer Credit

Transfer credit is awarded as closely as possible to specific U of R courses. When an exact or close U of R equivalent does not exist, unspecified transfer credit is awarded as closely as possible to the subject and level of the course (LV 100, LV 200, 1XX, 2XX, etc.). Unspecified credit can also be elective credit (ELEC).

Program Transfers and the Application of Transfer Credit

The transfer from one program to another will result in a reassessment of the application of awarded transfer credits. The total transfer credit applied may stay the same, increase, or decrease depending on the applicability of awarded transfer credit to the regulations of the chosen program of transfer.

Minimum GPA and Grade for the Award of Transfer Credit

Unless otherwise specified in the faculty/academic unit regulations, or in the program regulations of the student’s chosen program, the minimum GPA requirement for transfer credit consideration for courses completed at eligible institutions is 60%. This aligns with the U of R’s requirement for academic progression.

The transfer GPA of a student will be calculated in consideration of all previous post-secondary courses that have been completed and/or attempted. Students must also meet the minimum grade requirement of their faculty/academic unit in each transfer course for transfer credit consideration. Failing grades will be used in the calculation of the transfer GPA but will not be considered for the award of transfer credit.

Grade Conversions

The U of R reserves the right to convert incoming grades that are not in a percentage to a percentage for the purposes of determining the eligibility, award, and applicability of transfer credit. Where grade ranges are used by the sending institution in the award of a grade (i.e. A+ = 94% to 100%), a mid-range of the scale will be used (i.e. 97% for this example).

Percentage grades may also be converted when it is determined that the scales from the sending institution are dramatically different than what is used at the U of R (i.e. grades from other countries).

Failure to Declare Attendance at another Post-secondary Institution

Transfer credit may not be awarded if a student fails to declare their attendance at another institution on their application to the U of R.

Transfer Credit for Students with a Must Withdraw (MW) Status

Students on a MW may not be eligible for transfer credit for courses taken during the MW period. Students need to consult their faculty for the specific regulations pertaining to transfer credit and an MW status.
Transfer Credit for Students who have been expelled or suspended.

Students who are serving a misconduct penalty of expulsion or suspension are not eligible to receive transfer credit for courses taken elsewhere during the penalty period.

Fraudulent Transcripts

The U of R reserves the right to confirm that any transcript submitted is authentic and/or has been sent from the sending institution.

Transfer credit will not be awarded or will be revoked if it is determined the student has presented a transcript or document that misrepresents or has altered their academic history. The presentation of fraudulent documents and transcripts may result in the cancellation of the student’s application, withdrawal of an offer of admission, or an academic or non-academic misconduct penalty. The University reserves the right to report the submission of fraudulent documents and transcripts to the appropriate law enforcement agency.

Any applicant who presents a fraudulent document in support of an application for admission will be identified to other Canadian universities and colleges.

Official Transcripts and Transfer Credit

Students must arrange for the submission of an official transcript from their attended institution(s). A transcript is considered official when it has been sent directly to the U of R appropriate Admission’s Office or Registrar’s Office from an institution in a sealed envelope. Some forms of electronic submission made directly from the sending institution may be accepted on the approval of the Registrar.

Exception:

It may be difficult to obtain multiple copies of transcripts from some institutions outside of Canada (transcripts from schools in Ukraine, for example). In these cases, the University will accept a photo copy of the transcript from the student provided that it is presented to a University Official along with the original and that the photocopy is notarized by a Notary Public as a true and accurate copy of the original.

Translation to English

Transcripts in a language other than English or French, must be translated to English by a certified translator at the student’s expense.
Course Outlines and Transfer Credit

Course outlines (also known as course syllabi) are required for courses that have not been previously evaluated by the U of R, for courses that have undergone substantial changes since last being evaluated, or for courses that have been evaluated more than 10 years previous. Students will be notified of what course outlines are required. It is the student’s responsibility to have the appropriate course outlines sent to the U of R. A course(s) will not be evaluated until receipt of the course outline.

Course outlines in a language other than English or French, must be translated by a certified translator into English at the student’s expense.

Course outlines must include:

- Course title
- Course number
- Course description
- Information about how a student is evaluated
- Information about the textbook and other materials used for the course

The U of R may also request that the student submit information about the instructor’s credentials if needed.

Stale Dating

The practice of stale dating ensures current knowledge and applicability of course work. The U of R will not recognize course work that is determined to be out of date. Faculties/Academic Units reserve the right to determine their own stale dating practice. See Appendix A for the current listing of stale dating practices for each Faculty/Academic Unit.

Triangulation

Triangulation may be used to determine an institution’s eligibility for transfer credit consideration. Triangulation may also be used to determine the award of specified or unspecified transfer credit.

A decision to recognize an institution through triangulation does not guarantee the recognition of courses and credit hours from that institution.
Formal Agreements

Formal transfer credit agreements, also known as articulation agreements, are normally based on the recognition of block transfer but may also be made on the recognition of a course or a series of courses.

A Faculty or Academic Unit that is entering into a formalized agreement with a partner institution must use the U of R approved templates.

Letters of Permission

With the permission of their Faculty/Academic Unit, admitted and current students may take courses at another recognized institution for transfer to the U of R. To be eligible for a Letter of Permission students must:

- be in good academic standing with their Faculty/Academic Unit by meeting the minimum academic standards of their program and without having any current academic actions (probation, RTD, MW, etc.); and
- be in good financial standing with the University.

The University retains the right to refuse the award of transfer credit for students who take courses at another institution and do not obtain a Letter of Permission in advance of taking those courses.

Transfer Credit Appeals

Appeals on the award of transfer credit, the denial of transfer credit, and/or the applicability of transfer credit to a student’s chosen program are first made with an informal discussion with the academic area.

Students who are not satisfied with the results of the informal discussion can appeal to the Registrar. The student must submit a rationale outlining the results of the informal discussion with the academic area and provide the reasons why the transfer credit should be considered for review (see Process for more detail). Courses that have not been successfully completed, do not meet the minimum grade requirement of the academic area, or have been completed at an institution deemed not be eligible will not be considered for appeal.
The Registrar will coordinate a review of the transfer credit appeal with the following individuals:

- The Dean of the Faculty or the Director of the Academic Unit and;
- The Department Head or Program Chair or Associate Dean (Academic), as relevant; and
- One faculty member from the subject area of appeal.

The Registrar will Chair the review. Decisions of the review committee are final.

Roles and Responsibilities

Registrar’s Office/Admissions/UR International
- Determines institution eligibility.
- Coordinates the student application process including the collection of student transcript information.
- Investigates the submission of fraudulent documents or transcripts and initiates the formal academic or non-academic misconduct procedures.
- Maintains formal agreement templates.
- Approves the submission of an electronic transcript as official, or not.

Registrar’s Office
- Maintains transfer credit policies, procedures, and processes.
- Interprets transfer credit policy.
- Coordinates the transfer credit appeal process.

Faculties/Academic Units
- Make transfer credit decisions.
- Notify students on transfer credit award and the applicability of transfer credit to the student’s chosen program.
- Coordinates the review of transfer credit including the collection of course outlines.
- Participate in the review of appeals.
Consequences for Noncompliance

The submission of fraudulent documents or transcripts may result in the cancellation of the student’s application, withdrawal of an offer of admission, or an academic or non-academic misconduct penalty.

Faculty members, Department Heads, Program Chairs, and Associate Deans are required to fairly and equitably apply this policy to all student requests for transfer credit assessment and consideration. Failure to do so could result in increased cost of tuition for students and increased costs to the University in the review of appeals of transfer credit.

Faculties and Academic Units who do not use the approved templates when entering into formalized agreement with a partner institution increase risk and potential legal liability to the U of R.

Processes

How to Apply for Transfer Credit and the Transfer Credit Process

New Students

1. Fill out the Application for Admission Form and pay the application fee.
2. Request one official transcript from each post-secondary institution you have attended be sent to the U of R.
3. The appropriate Admissions Office or the Registrar’s Office determines eligibility of the institution the transcript is from and forwards all eligible transcripts to the faculty or academic unit for review.
4. The faculty or academic unit reviews the transcripts sent from the Admissions Office and decides what, if any, classes can be awarded transfer credit and applied to a student’s program. Students may be required to supply course outlines if asked to do so by the faculty, department, or college. University calendars and other documentation may also be requested.
5. Once the faculty, department, or college has determined the credit to be awarded and applied to a student’s program, an advisor fills out a transfer credit evaluation form and forwards it the Registrar's Office for processing.
6. The Registrar’s Office checks all information to make sure it is correct and then adds the information to each student's record.
7. The Faculty or College sends a copy of the transfer credit evaluation to the student.
Admitted Students – Letter of Permission

Current U of R students may be eligible to take courses from another post-secondary institution with permission from their faculty or college. Please check with your faculty or college for the specific process to follow.

1. Obtain permission from your faculty or college and submit the Letter of Permission they issue to you to the institution where you will be taking the course(s).
2. The faculty or college will register the student in a Letter of Permission course on the student system.
3. When the course has been completed, send one official transcript directly to the U of R.
4. The Registrar’s Office will review the transcript and the Letter of Permission to ensure the approved course(s) were completed and determine whether the minimum grade required was achieved. Eligible transfer credit information will be added to the student’s record and the Letter of Permission course will be given a grade of MC.

Process for Appeal of Transfer Credit

A student may appeal the award or the application of transfer credit to their chosen program. Appeals on the recognition of an institution or on the denial of transfer credit on courses with failing grades or for courses that do not meet the minimum grade standard of the faculty, academic unit, or the student’s chosen program will not be considered.

The first step is for the student to have a discussion with their academic area. If the student is not satisfied with the response, the student must submit their appeal in writing (by letter or by email) and include the following information:

1. Name, student id number, and U of R email address.
2. Faculty or academic unit and program of study.
3. The date of the information discussion with the Faculty or academic unit.
4. The reason why the transfer credit award or application of the transfer credit should be reconsidered.
5. Any other pertinent information that the student believes the Transfer Credit Appeals Committee should consider.

Students may send their appeal by email to registrar@uregina.ca, hand deliver their appeal to the Registrar’s Office in the Administrative and Humanities Building room AH 210, or send their appeal by mail to:

Registrar
AH210
3737 Wascana Pkwy
Regina, SK S4S 0A2
Upon receipt of the appeal, the Registrar will review. On completion of the review the Registrar may:

1. request more information from the student; or
2. decline to proceed; or
3. proceed.

Students will be notified of the Registrar’s decision via their U of R email account. If the Registrar has decided to proceed with the appeal, a meeting will be coordinated within 30 days of receipt of the appeal with the following individuals from the subject area of the appeal:

- The Dean of the Faculty or the Director of the Academic Unit and;
- The Department Head or Program Chair or Associate Dean (Academic), as relevant; and
- One faculty member from the subject area of appeal.

All decisions of the transfer credit review committee shall be final. Students will be notified via their U of R email account of the committee’s decision.

Formal Agreement Process

Faculties/Academic Units submit a proposed agreement to the Registrar on the approved templates for initial review.

The Registrar reviews the template and advises of any changes that may be required.

The agreement is signed by:

- The U of R Dean of the Faculty or Director of the Academic Unit; and
- The U of R Provost; and
- The Dean or Director of partner institution; and
- The Provost or most senior academic officer of partner institution.

The Registrar’s Office receives a copy of the signed agreement. The information within the agreement is entered into the appropriate data base as required.

The Registrar’s Office initiates a formal communication with the faculty or academic unit about 12 months prior to the expiration of an agreement so that the agreement can undergo a review and renewal if necessary.

Draft Statement of the University of Regina’s Response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission Report and Calls to Action

The University of Regina’s response consists of:

- A Statement of Commitment in Response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission;
- A list of the Response to the University of Regina’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission Working Group members;
- The Response to the University of Regina’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission Working Group Terms of Reference;
- A List of Calls to Action which will be prioritized in University-wide responses and can be addressed by individual faculties, units, and divisions;
- A List of further Calls to Action which can be the basis for further action in the context of higher education;
- An Inventory of existing responses at the University of Regina;
- A list of Links and Resources to offer further insights into Reconciliation.

The Statement of Commitment was written on the basis of the University of Regina’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission Working Group’s past meetings with comments from Lifespeaker Noel Starblanket. This Statement of Commitment is only one part of the overall response. It is meant to be read as a speech by President Timmons and to be shared as a document that outlines a clear direction and clear commitments (and so it is policy-driven), as well as providing inspiration for all to take on the tasks attached to Reconciliation and take action (and so it is engagement-driven).
Statement of Commitment in Response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission

The University of Regina is situated on Treaty 4 lands with a presence in Treaty 6 territory. These territories are the ancestral lands of the Cree, Saulteaux, Dakota, and Lakota nations and the homeland of the Métis. Today, these lands continue to be the shared territory of several Indigenous nations from near and far. We, at the University of Regina, recognize the contribution that engaging in Reconciliation brings to our life as a campus community that is situated on these lands. The University of Regina is committed to making Reconciliation apart of all interactions amongst Indigenous and non-Indigenous students, staff, and faculty and with our neighbours off-campus.

To address Reconciliation at the University of Regina, we rely on the work of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada (TRC). Its Report discusses the history of colonialism in Canada and how this history continues to operate and inform Canadian society and its institutions. The TRC was born of the resilience and courage of Indian Residential School survivors. It provided a safe space for survivor and inter-generational survivor truth-telling and to memorialize the many children who did not survive. It also asked the nation to listen and bear witness to these truths. The TRC forced this nation to cease ignoring the history of the Indian Residential School system and the continued impacts that this system has ingrained into the daily lives of all Canadians. The TRC also offers a vision of Reconciliation based on hope – a vision which is held alike by many survivors and intergenerational survivors, Indigenous peoples, and non-Indigenous populations, that we can address the resulting systemic colonialism together. The TRC’s 94 Calls to Action provide a framework to transform this hope into reality through the concrete actions of Reconciliation, which is a responsibility of all Canadians.

Much like other post-secondary institutions, the University of Regina has a history of developing and applying knowledge, constructing space, and interacting with Indigenous peoples and communities in ways that have been framed by western-based practices. Today, many universities are addressing these practices in an effort to transform themselves so that non-Indigenous populations can study, work, and live in a good way with Indigenous peoples. To address this history and shift these practices, the process of Indigenization has been implemented at the University of Regina. Our institution understands Indigenization as the inclusion of Indigenous ways of knowing, voices, and critiques in our practices such as teaching, research, governance, and our physical spaces. This includes, especially, those Indigenous nations upon whose lands the University is situated. In addition to Indigenization efforts, Reconciliation will require new, complementary, and additional efforts for the University to meet its collective and campus-wide responsibility.

As we did in December of 2016 in a joint response with the University of Saskatchewan, we at the University of Regina acknowledge the TRC’s Calls to Action. The Calls were addressed to all who live in Canada, especially those in positions of privilege and power resulting from colonialism. It requires two parties – Indigenous and non-Indigenous peoples – to come together to form mutually respectful relationships and transform practices that exclude Indigenous peoples and knowledge systems, a practice that creates barriers to respect and mutuality. The Calls are an invitation to join Reconciliation. The Calls beckon us to respond, listen, engage, and live together. They are an invitation to learn together and from each other. It asks all non-Indigenous peoples across Canada to follow the generous lead of the First Peoples whose lands they share. Georges Sioui of the Wyandot-Huron nation and past Associate Professor of Indian Studies and Dean of Academics of the Saskatchewan Indian Federated College reminds us that since European nations first began to settle, sign treaties, colonize, and claim the lands, Indigenous peoples have offered knowledge and goodwill, shared land and resources, and stood resilient in the face of European and later Canadian colonialism. In response to the Calls to Action we recognize that, at this point in time, Reconciliation is in larger part a treaty responsibility of non-Indigenous peoples. Specifically, non-Indigenous peoples are asked to take part in Reconciliation because many Indigenous people have already been conciliatory. The TRC’s Calls to Action seek to address this imbalance in commitment and respect that has, to date, framed the relationship between Indigenous and non-Indigenous peoples.

The University of Regina’s commitment to Reconciliation is based on five goals. We commit that each and every student, staff, or faculty member will have the tools for Reconciliation, or mutual respect, through:

- Knowledge of treaties, specifically of Treaties 4 and 6;
- A basic understanding of Canada’s history with and the continuance of colonialism, including of the Indian Residential Schools and the Indian Act;
- An awareness of Indigenous ways of knowing and how these relate to their program of study;
- Knowledge of the key elements of the Final Report of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission and its Calls to Action, the Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples, and the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples; and
- An understanding of the role they can play in Reconciliation on the basis of the knowledge and skills they will have acquired at the University of Regina.

With any responsibility comes a requirement for accountability. To assist in the creation of such initiatives, the University’s TRC Working Group will create a list of resources and examples. All faculties, units, and divisions share this common responsibility of Reconciliation and must take it upon themselves to take up one or more Calls. A list of initiatives toward Reconciliation will be created and will be maintained as faculties, units, and divisions report their activities associated with Reconciliation to the President’s Office. Above all, I invite every faculty and staff member, every student, and everyone who interacts with the University of Regina to take up this responsibility – these Calls to Action – as your own.
