UNIVERSITY OF REGINA

Senate

Item for Decision

Subject: Affiliation Agreement with the Gabriel Dumont Institute (GDI) and the University of Regina (UofR)

Recommendation:

The Senate Committee on Affiliation and Federation recommends to Senate for approval the University of Regina and the Gabriel Dumont Institute affiliation agreement (Attachment A), effective September 1, 2024.

Background and Description:

The University of Regina Senate Bylaws outline the following with respect to affiliations:

The aim of affiliation is to associate with the University for the purpose of promoting the general advancement of higher education in the Province those post-secondary institutions which are carrying on work recognized as of university caliber by the Senate of the University, where such association is of mutual benefit to the University and the institution seeking affiliation.

GDI and the UofR share many common goals with respect to addressing the post-secondary educational needs of students of Métis ancestry within the Province of Saskatchewan and have a common interest in providing University accredited programing and training of Métis students in a variety of fields.

GDI and the UofR wish to set out principles, terms and conditions upon the joint initiatives undertaken pursuant to the Parties' affiliation shall operate.

Previous Senate Approvals and Reporting:

GDI and the UofR have a long history of cooperation. The current affiliation agreement came into effect September 1, 2019 with an expiry date of March 31, 2024.

The only significant change from the 2019 agreement is the removal of Section 6.2 Indigenous and Métis Research Fund:

6.2 — Indigenous Métis Research Fund

To encourage and promote research in areas of special importance to Indigenous communities and particularly the Métis people in the Province of Saskatchewan, GDI will pay to the University an annual fee of $20,000 (the "IMR Fee"). The IMR Fee will be used to fund a research fund (the "Indigenous and Métis Research Fund") which will be administered by the University.

Projects for funding will be selected through an annual open competition. The Associate Vice-President (Academic) of the University will send out a University-wide call for proposals in September. An adjudication committee will review the proposals and select the projects to be funded. The adjudication committee will be chaired by the Associate Vice-President (Academic) and include three University faculty members, the UR Executive Lead – Indigenization, and a representative from GDI.

The criteria to be used for determining the eligibility of projects for funding and adjudicating proposals will be mutually agreed upon by the University and GDI.

There has been no uptake on this grant since the agreement was signed. Remaining funds will be administered through an annual call for grant applications and follow the established terms of reference for the award.

The Parties agree that the relationship between them as set out in this Agreement is an affiliation between the University and GDI in relation to the Programs, such affiliation to be governed by the Senate Bylaws. In the event of an inconsistency between this Agreement and the Senate Bylaws, the Senate Bylaws shall govern.

2.2 General Principles of Affiliation

As contemplated by the Senate Bylaws, as an affiliated college of the University, GDI is a post-secondary institution, legally and financially independent from the University, whose affiliated academic affairs are governed by the Senate without GDI becoming academically merged with the University. As a result:

- (a) GDI employs its own administrative, academic and support staff (whose salaries and wages it itself pays), and maintains its own premises;
- (b) by agreement, GDI offers selected classes which count towards degrees, certificates, or diplomas conferred by the University;
- (c) the academic standards of GDI with respect to the Programs and Program Courses are under the jurisdiction and supervision of the Senate, Council and the appropriate Faculty of the University; and
- (d) GDI selects and appoints its own academic staff, however the academic credentials of the academic staff teaching Program Courses must be approved by the University.

2.3 Conditions of Affiliation

As contemplated by the Senate Bylaws, the following conditions must be and continue to be met by GDI for GDI to be and continue to be affiliated with the University:

- (a) GDI must offer at least the equivalent of five semester-long courses for which credit is given by the University towards a degree, diploma, or certificate;
- (b) the courses offered by GDI for which the University will give credit toward a degree, diploma, or certificate must be considered by the University to be equivalent in quality to the University's own courses;
- (c) the amount of credit given for off-campus work through GDI in the courses for which credit is given by the University must be consistent with the regulations of the University respecting off-campus work;
- (d) the offering of each Program Course and the appointment of instructors to teach Program Courses shall be mutually agreed upon by the appropriate Faculty of the University.

2.4 Executive Director of GDI

By virtue of the affiliation of GDI with the University, the Executive Director of GDI shall be a member of the Senate. For further certainty, other officers and faculty of GDI are not members of any of the governing or academic bodies of the University.

ARTICLE 3: SPECIFIC GOALS AND PRINCIPLES OF GDI AFFILIATION

3.1 General Principles of Affiliation Between the University and GDI

The Parties acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) the University is authorized to deliver academically accredited courses and programs and, where appropriate, to ensure that programs meet the requirements of professional certification;
- (b) GDI is responsible for providing its students with accredited and, where appropriate, professionally certified programs that are culturally and educationally relevant to the Métis community;
- (c) GDI and the University will work collaboratively to expand educational opportunities for Métis students in a broad spectrum of programming options, both on-campus (at GDI) and in the Métis community. This collaboration is based upon the principles of mutual respect, institutional autonomy, cooperation and the determination to work collaboratively to maintain the principles of existing programs, while working towards the development and delivery of new initiatives and educational opportunities primarily, but not exclusively, for Métis students;

- (d) the Métis community, represented by GDI, participates in the development, administration, and co-ordination of the delivery of University programming offered through GDI;
- (e) through joint initiatives the Parties will seek to provide students and faculty with an educational environment in which they will develop the tools necessary to explore their identity and expand their cultural knowledge;
- (f) the Parties wish to work in a cooperative, consultative manner to:
 - (i) recommend Program development;
 - (ii) develop new course initiatives, including in the area of postgraduate studies; and
 - (iii) connect research and practice in ways that will foster continuous Program improvements.

3.2 Goals and Guiding Principles of Affiliation between the University and GDI

The Parties acknowledge and agree that:

- (a) This affiliation is intended to advance the educational goals of the University and of GDI and will serve as a mechanism for building an educational and social bridge between the University and the Métis community.
- (b) This affiliation is intended for the betterment of the University, GDI, the Métis community and the non-Métis community, and is based upon shared goals that emphasize mutual respect and shared knowledge.
- (c) While both Parties recognize their respective autonomous nature, specific responsibilities and unique mandates, they also recognize the importance of maintaining healthy, respectful relationships that manifest the following:
 - (i) a relationship of mutual respect between the Parties that is collegial, collaborative, open, transparent and trusting in nature and that focuses on a proactive problem solving approach;
 - (ii) a mutual respect for the academic, professional and cultural knowledge of both Parties that recognizes and honours the strengths that both Parties contribute to the affiliation;
 - (iii) a mutually beneficial relationship which recognizes that each Party has important perspectives or ways of knowing which enrich the affiliation.

- (d) Both Parties share a common vision of program delivery and will work collaboratively to:
 - (i) deliver programming that upholds a shared standard of excellence;
 - (ii) provide the Métis community with increased access to University programming in a culturally responsive and appropriate manner; and
 - (iii) identify the unmet post-secondary educational and training needs of the Métis community and to improve access to, and learning outcomes/success rates for, Métis students at the University.
- (e) The Parties share a common vision to provide sustainable and cost effective educational opportunities for the Métis community that allow the Métis affordable access to University programming, thus enabling GDI to serve as a bridge between the University and the Métis community.

ARTICLE 4: PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION

4.1 Program Agreements

The Parties agree that each Program shall be administered in accordance with this Agreement and in accordance with an individual agreement relating to each Program (a “Program Agreement”). Each Program Agreement shall contain terms and conditions setting out:

- (a) a description of the Program;
- (b) the Program operations and support (including records and staffing);
- (c) the role of each of the Parties;
- (d) marketing;
- (e) enrolment, registration and admission requirements, policies and procedures;
- (f) tuition and/or Program fees;
- (g) the Program costs (and the responsibility therefor);
- (h) obligations with respect to personal information and confidential information;
- (i) indemnification, liability and insurance requirements;

in each case, with respect to the applicable Program. To the extent of any inconsistency between a provision of this Agreement and a provision in a Program Agreement, the applicable Program Agreement shall govern.

4.2 Program Administration

The Parties agree to the following principles for the functioning and administration of the Programs:

- (a) The Academic Matters for the Programs are under the exclusive jurisdiction and supervision of the Senate, the Council and the applicable Faculty of the University. Among other matters, the University will set the curriculum and the requirements for Program Course delivery and evaluation, and will approve the final grades in Program Courses.
- (b) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Agreement or in any Program Agreement, the Parties recognize and agree that pursuant to The University of Regina Act, the applicable UR Dean is the chief executive officer of the applicable Faculty, and therefore, each Program. As a result, the UR Dean (subject to such approval of the University President, Council and Senate as may be required) shall have the authority over all Academic Matters, and the UR Dean's decisions in respect thereof shall be final.
- (c) Students in the Programs are students of the University and GDI and the University's admission standards, policies and procedures will apply to such Students unless otherwise provided herein. The course registration process, official student record, transcript services and adjudication for graduation in respect of the Students will be administered by the University. GDI will adhere to all University admission, course registration and course drop dates and deadlines.
- (d) Unless otherwise agreed to by the University, GDI will be responsible for hiring and employing instructors for Program Courses other than those Program Courses that the University may assign to its tenure-track, tenured, or term-appointment faculty members and instructors in order to ensure the academic integrity and quality of the Program as mutually agreed. In order to teach University courses in the Programs, all GDI faculty members and instructors must have their academic credentials approved by the University (on a course-by-course, and term-by-term basis) prior to being appointed to teach a Program Course. The decision of the University on such matters is final.

4.3 Certification

All Programs will be delivered in consultation with GDI and by mutual agreement will be fully accredited and meet the requirements of a University certificate, diploma, or degree, as the case may be, as well as relevant certification requirements.

ARTICLE 5 PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION AND DEVELOPMENT

5.1 Affiliation Coordinator

The Senate Bylaws prescribe that coordination of activities between an affiliated institution and the University shall be through the Office of the Provost and Vice-President (Academic). To that end, the University will employ an individual on a part-time basis to act as a coordinator for the affiliation activities and community-based Program delivery between the University and GDI (the “Affiliation Coordinator”). The University will select the Affiliation Coordinator in consultation with GDI. The Affiliation Coordinator will report to the Associate Vice-President (Academic) of the University. The Affiliation Coordinator will coordinate appropriate arrangements within the University for admissions, registration, finances and other similar items, with respect to any Program, as well as handling particular issues or concerns that may arise. To that end, the Affiliation Coordinator will maintain good communication with GDI and the administrators involved in each of the Programs.

5.2 UR-GDI Joint Relations Committee

The University will establish a joint relations committee to further develop and maintain good relations between the Parties with respect to joint academic programming (the “UR-GDI Joint Relations Committee”). The UR-GDI Joint Relations Committee will be composed of representatives from the University (including one or more individuals involved in the administration of the Programs) and from GDI. The objectives of the UR-GDI Joint Relations Committee are: 1) to facilitate communication and collaboration between the Parties to achieve their common goals; 2) to develop a vision and identify opportunities for new initiatives and joint programming in alignment with their common goals; and 3) to evaluate and provide recommendations for the Programs. The UR-GDI Joint Relations Committee is advisory to the Associate Vice-President (Academic) of the University and the Executive Director of GDI.

5.3 Program Development

The Parties will work collaboratively to develop Métis specific programming at the University. This programming may take the form of individual courses, or University approved degree, diploma, or certificate programs. This program development may occur in conjunction with a number of faculties and departments and the costs of such development will be at GDI’s expense unless mutually agreed upon in advance. In respect of the development of Programs:

- (a) either Party may take the lead to propose and initiate new Programs or initiatives.
- (b) no public announcements respecting the intent to develop or implement any Program shall be made without the consent of both Parties.

5.4 Program Monitoring and Review

The University will establish collaborative practices to evaluate the quality of instructional Programs and to assist with student selection and counseling in conjunction with GDI. GDI will be kept informed of all Program changes. GDI will participate in Program reviews and evaluations that affect the Programs.

5.5 Copyright and Ownership Rights

Copyright of any Program Course materials, research, publications and any other matter that is created by a faculty member will be governed by the policies in place at that faculty member's institution. Whenever a faculty member from one Party works with a faculty member from the other Party to develop materials that could give rise to copyright, the faculty members will, in consultation with the UR Dean and the Executive Director of GDI, enter into a written agreement that provides for ownership of such copyright.

ARTICLE 6 FINANCIAL MATTERS

6.1 Administration and Services Fee

GDI will pay an annual fee to the University for the administrative services provided by the University (the "Administration Services Fee") in connection with the affiliation (including the services of the Affiliation Coordinator). The Administration and Services Fee will be calculated on an ascending scale as follows:

For further certainty, the Administration Services Fee is payable by GDI in addition to all fees and amounts payable under each Program Agreement.

6.2 Fees Under Program Agreements

For further certainty, the Administration and Services Fee is each payable by GDI in addition to all fees and amounts payable by GDI under each Program Agreement.

6.3 Invoicing and Payment

The Parties agree to adhere to and properly apply the provisions of the said Act and Regulations. In connection with each Program, the Parties will ensure that they obtain the necessary consents or provide the appropriate notice to the Students to the collection, use, retention and disclosure of a Student’s personal information in accordance with applicable Privacy Laws.

7.2 Disclosure of Confidential Information

GDI and the University may disclose confidential information, one to another, to facilitate work under this Agreement or under a Program Agreement. In the event a confidentiality agreement is entered into with a third Party, such confidentiality agreement will be jointly executed by GDI and the University. 202430 – Fall 2024 Term

ITEM(S) FOR APPROVAL:

1. COUNCIL COMMITTEE ON THE FACULTY OF GRADUATE STUDIES AND RESEARCH

1.1 Faculty of Arts

1.1.1 Master of Journalism – Program Suspension

MOTION: To suspend admissions to the Masters of Journalism program for the 2024-2025 academic year, effective 202420.

Rationale:

The faculty in the School of Journalism are currently undertaking a major overhaul of their undergraduate program that will fundamentally change how the program operates, including integrating it more fulsomely, with other programs in Arts. As time is needed to complete this work and to launch the new program in 24/25, it is best to wait to restructure the Master of Journalism following the first year of the newly reconfigured undergraduate program.

1.2 Johnson Shoyama Graduate School of Public Policy

1.2.1 Master of Public Administration Internship Program Route – New Program

MOTION: That a Master of Public Administration (MPA) Internship Program Route be created, effective 202430.

JSGS 802	3
JSGS 805	3

JSGS 891	3
JSGS 892	3
JSGS 850	0
JSGS 8xx or approved elective *	3
JSGS 8xx or approved elective *	3
Total	36

* Subject to approval by graduate chair.

Note: The Internship Program Route will not have direct entry.

Rationale:

The Johnson Shoyama Graduate School (JSGS) Executive Internship (JSGS 850) Program has been around for the duration of the school's existence (15 years). It is among the top reasons why international, and some domestic students lacking in public sector experience, select and apply to the JSGS MPA program.

International students participating in the JSGS Executive Internship (EIP) must apply to Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada (IRCC) for a co-op/internship work permit and receive approval before starting their placement. IRCC now requires the internship to be a mandatory component of the JSGS MPA program in order for international students to be eligible for a co-op/internship work permit. Unless the internship (JSGS 850) is made a mandatory component of the JSGS MPA program, international students will be ineligible for a co-op/internship work permit. This would essentially exclude international students from participating in the JSGS Executive Internship Program.

By adding the Master of Public Administration (MPA) - Internship Program Route to the existing MPA program, JSGS 850 becomes a required course for completion of their MPA program. At such time that the student qualifies for, applies to and has secured an internship placement, they will be moved to the Master of Public Administration (MPA) – Internship Program Route. Once the student is switched to this route, JSGS 850 becomes mandatory thereby qualifying them to apply for a co-op/internship work permit, as required by IRCC's policies.

This is not a program change; requirements remain as is. Students currently registered in this program will be notified of the change to the program name.

1.5 FACULTY OF NURSING1.5.1 Graduate Certificate in Nursing Education – New Program

MOTION: To create a Graduate Certificate in Nursing Education, effective 202430.

Program Description

The Graduate Certificate in Nursing Education (GCNE) will prepare nurses with specialized knowledge and skills for teaching in various academic and clinical settings, including clinical facilities, hospitals, community health centers, and academic institutions, using multiple teaching modalities such as clinical instruction, simulation and classroom-based learning. The GCNE program will emphasize teaching strategies, development, implementation, and evaluation of programs and courses. Moreover, it will underscore the importance of professionalism and effective education within diverse environments and with diverse populations, including vulnerable and marginalized populations. The GCNE program will offer a platform for further academic pursuits in the profession of nursing, including master's studies. Certificate courses will be transferable into the Master of Nursing course based.

Admission Requirements

- Applicants must satisfy the admission requirements of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research.
- Registered Nurses, Registered Psychiatric Nurses, or Licensed Practical Nurses with any baccalaureate degree.

Rationale:

The Faculty of Nursing (FoN) at the University of Regina (U of R) is establishing new graduate programs in nursing to service the health care needs of Saskatchewan. The proposed graduate programs would provide multiple pathways for baccalaureate-prepared nurses (RNs, RPNs and LPNs) to excel in advanced professional nursing roles and to contribute to the discipline of nursing. The nursing graduate programs outlined in this proposal will be offered by the FoN, allowing full academic control and financial benefit to the U of R. It will enhance the current program complement available at the U of R and offer accessible alternative graduate options to the nurses of Saskatchewan and beyond.

Students in the Graduate Certificate in Nursing Education will explore theories of learning and the related implications for effective educational endeavours in various contexts of nursing practice. The courses in this program will facilitate how learning outcomes in nursing practice are influenced by the orientation, characteristics, and actions of those who teach and learn, as well as the resources and constraints within each context where the teaching and learning processes occur.

For additional information on this program, please review the 24 January 2024 Executive of Council Agenda and Meeting Materials: <https://www.uregina.ca/president/governance/council/eofc-meetings.html>

Program Description

The Graduate Certificate in Nursing Leadership (GCNL) will expand knowledge and competence in nursing leadership within a variety of healthcare contexts. Using an evidence-based approach, students will explore, define, and develop traits that nurses need to improve healthcare quality and safety, manage the finances and operations of healthcare organizations, lead healthcare innovations, and respond to industry challenges and trends. The curriculum will also enhance learners' leadership skills, focusing on ethical and cultural awareness when working with vulnerable or marginalized populations. The GCNL program will offer a platform for further academic pursuits in the field of nursing, including master's studies. Certificate courses will be transferable into the Master of Nursing course based.

The coursework in the GCNL will emphasize instruction in leadership to advance learners' knowledge of nursing leadership principles and theories, as well as their applications in various healthcare settings. It will strengthen students' leadership skills in strategic planning, decision-making, collaboration, communication, change management, quality improvement initiatives, influencing policy and operations, health informatics, and care for vulnerable populations, all to enhance patient outcomes and the overall healthcare delivery system. Courses in GCNL will prepare students to lead in healthcare settings such as acute and long-term care facilities, community and other non-residential health centres, healthcare associations, and nursing and healthcare educational associations and institutions.

1.5.3 Master of Nursing – New Program

MOTION: To create a course-based Master of Nursing, effective 202430.

Program Description

The Master of Nursing course-based program will prepare students for advanced practice in focused areas, including clinical nursing practice, education with skills to improve healthcare delivery and patient outcomes, and strengthened leadership capacity to expand and evaluate nursing practice. Academic content will focus on vulnerable or marginalized populations. Graduates of the MN program will be prepared to engage in opportunities, such as leadership roles in healthcare organizations (e.g., coordinator, manager, and director), faculty/clinical education and research roles in university and college, and clinical/community education roles. The MN course-based program will provide a solid foundation for students who are interested in progressing to doctoral studies in future.

They will enhance the current program complement available at the U of R and offer accessible alternative graduate options to the nurses of Saskatchewan and beyond.

The current and emerging trends in healthcare delivery, nursing practice, and the healthcare workforce need to emphasize the need for nursing as a profession to look to the future and anticipate the healthcare needs that nurses must be prepared to address. For example, with the increased awareness of vulnerabilities within marginalized populations (e.g., Indigenous communities, rural and remote communities, aging populations, people who experience homelessness, and recent immigrants/refugees), the proposed MN program will prepare graduates to develop and evaluate evidence-informed and strength-based approaches that will engage vulnerable populations in their care; improve the accessibility and quality of healthcare services; and improve equity and health outcomes.

The MN course-based program will be comprised of 10 courses (30 credit hours), including four core courses (12 credit hours) plus six elective courses (18 credit hours). In the MN course-based program, a minimum of 60% of the courses will be nursing courses and the remaining courses (maximum of 40%) can be filled with non-nursing electives.

60-0	Subtotal: 70.00% PGPA on pre-journalism required to apply for admission.
Students who complete the pre-journalism program must apply for admission to the School of Journalism

All students who complete the above requirements will be considered for admission; however, students are advised to complete ENGL 110 and PHIL 150 among their core requirements. They are further advised to complete their second language requirement in French. Finally, students are advised to choose some of the following courses as electives: SOC 100 and/or SOC 203; PSCI 230; ENGL 251, 351.

Rationale:

Since the School was founded in 1980, the Pre-Journalism program has consisted of two years of introductory level liberal arts courses. This now includes the Arts Core Requirements and ten electives. For successful applicants to the School, this was followed by two years of intensive specialization in journalism studies. However, the reduction of active faculty lines from 6.5 to two in the span of about five years now requires decisive measures to streamline for cost-effectiveness and long-range sustainability. This motion enables us to spread out the Journalism degree requirements across four-years, bringing the program into alignment with the norm across the Faculty of Arts.

2.1.2 Bachelor of Arts in Journalism, News Media, and Communication – New Program

MOTION: To create the Bachelor of Arts in Journalism, News Media, and Communication Program, effective 202420.

BA in Journalism, News Media, and Communication

The final two years of the BA in Journalism program, 60 credit hours, must be completed in full at the University of Regina, following admission to the School of Journalism.

Students admitted to the School of Journalism will take three terms of course work Journalism, News Media, and Communication majors will serve one term as an intern (JRN 400), either in a news medium (e.g. online, print, radio, or television) or communications role. Students must meet a required standard in this internship to obtain the degree. Prerequisites for the internship include JRN 100, 200, 201, 202 (or INCA 391AA), 320 or 321, and 330. Communications interns must also complete two of PR 100, PR 101, or PR 200. Moreover, JRN 320 and JRN 321 are preparatory for internships. Ideally, the internship will therefore take place in the term immediately following these latter two courses. Note: that placements are determined by the School of Journalism and special permission is required to take a course in the same term as the internship.

Journalism, News Media, and Communication students are advised to complete ENGL 110 and PHIL 150 among their core requirements. Complementing the core requirements of a Bachelor of Arts in Journalism, the Certificate in Public relations and the Certificate in Reconciliation Studies offer further opportunities to meet evolving societal needs and labour market demands.

Rationale:

Spreading the Journalism degree requirements across four years, brings the program into alignment with the norm across the Faculty of Arts. By replacing the established 2+2 model (a two-year pre-JRN program plus a two-year cohort-based JRN program) with an integrated four-year program, the School can: offer lower enrolment courses on alternating years; place greater emphasis on 100- and 200-level JRN offerings to increase enrolments; eliminate previously required 300-level courses by redistributing content across 100- and 200-level offerings; and open up JRN courses to non-majors. An integrated four-year program thereby reduces costs and increases revenues.

Curricular retooling also presents opportunities to advance important academic aims such as recognizing the widening scope of digital communications practices. The redesign builds Indigenous Communication Arts (INCA) and Public Relations (PR) courses into the program, while offering more elective choices to encourage students to take better advantage of cognate offerings across the disciplines (e.g. Arts, Media and Production Studies, Public Relations, and Indigenous Communication Arts)—and particularly at the upper level (300- and 400-level courses).

Expanding the range and flexibility of course offerings reflects a changing environment in which part-time study is increasingly common, the structure of opportunities for journalists is evolving, and the University's fiscal challenge encourages greater cross-listing of courses. While recognizing the news industry is continuing democratic importance and central cultural role, this realignment also goes beyond the program's traditional focus on legacy media. It broadens the base of student learning to reflect rapidly expanding opportunities in the communications and cultural industries.

Offering a realistic and achievable solution to the School of Journalism's limited teaching capacity, this redesign includes four inter-related components: 1) making JRN 100 a requirement for majors; 2) streamlining 300-level offerings to reflect JRN majors' participation in JRN 100 and new 200-level options; 3) supplementing them with cognate courses (e.g. INCA 391 and PR 100, 101 and 201) to better account for the evolving communications and cultural environment; 4) introducing JRN 330 as a new required course to further expand the theoretical and practical scope of students' learning; and 5) providing more interdisciplinary elective options and guidance to further economize, modernize, and strengthen the program.

Expanding the advice for the Bachelor of Arts in Journalism builds on previous advisories, which highlight foundational knowledge and skill-sets of particular importance for journalists. The range of that advice will be expanded to include a communications cluster of related certificates, French immersion, and study abroad options. Including this advice recognizes that the implications of new societal challenges – including rapid change in the news, communications, and cultural industries – may not be self-evident. By spotlighting some of the many specific opportunities of particular value to Journalism majors at the University of Regina, this advice can both build on the capacities students will develop through a Bachelor of Arts in Journalism, News Media, and Communications and broaden their career options.

General Benefits of the proposed Bachelor of Arts in Journalism

- 1) Expanded elective choice can further enhance recruitment appeal. For example, students interested in opportunities that include journalism may also want to explore the wider societal demand for communications professionals with specialist training (e.g. digital communications, documentary production, or Indigenous, non-profit, and corporate public relations). Emphasizing a greater diversity of elective choice prepares students to meet increasingly heterogeneous and evolving labour market needs in the news, communications, and cultural industries.
- 2) A broader range of interdisciplinary studies outside journalism (e.g. Indigenous Studies, English, Sociology, Political Science, or Film Studies) can also help JRN students navigate an emerging reality of rapid technological change (e.g. AI), increasingly complex social problems (e.g. climate change, reconciliation), and evolving varieties of journalistic practice (e.g. science journalism, environmental journalism, peace journalism, community journalism). From developing more wide-ranging interests or skill-sets (e.g. literary journalism or documentary production) to expanding their topic knowledge (e.g. social problems, comparative politics, or propaganda studies), expanded interdisciplinary options can help them develop deeper understandings (of public issues and the craft of composition, film-making, etc.) that go beyond the professional programs current scope.
- 3) Moreover, additional 300- and 400- level options across the disciplines can help journalists meet the shifting expectations of contemporary audiences—shaped by higher educational attainments and increasingly diverse interests.
- 4) Finally, this interdisciplinary turn will help sustain cognate programs, foster interdisciplinary exchange, and encourage transdisciplinary collaborations between scholars and journalists. For example, increasing students' points-of-contact across campus and through upper-level courses can enhance their comfort level with identifying and approaching academic specialists as sources. Against the mounting threats of the 'post-truth society,' strengthening truth-seeking professions' working relationship (and the evidentiary basis of journalism) takes on particular democratic urgency.

Specific rationale for each change

- 1) The addition of JRN 100 (Introduction to Journalism and democracy) to the list of major requirements will expose more students to the journalistic imagination earlier. This can stimulate demand for upper level JRN courses. It will also lighten the 300- level load of JRN courses—by introducing students much earlier to basic aspects of journalistic ethics, research methods, and principles of interviewing. JRN 302 (Rights and Responsibilities of the Journalist), JRN 303 (Research Methods), and JRN 304 (The Art of the Interview) previously covered these areas.
- 2) The addition of a new, required course JRN 330 (Mass Communications Theory and Practice) establishes a pathway from JRN 200-level to 300-level JRN offerings. It will also incorporate some of the intermediate curricular elements previously included in JRN 302 (Rights and Responsibilities of the Journalist), JRN 303 (Research Methods), and JRN 304 (The Art of the Interview).

- 3) The elimination of JRN 302 (Rights and Responsibilities of the Journalist), JRN 303 (Research Methods), and JRN 304 (The Art of the Interview) reflects a curricular streamlining that incorporates introductory modules on each theme in JRN 100. Intermediate content will be redistributed across JRN 200 (formerly 300), Introduction to Digital Newswriting; JRN 201 (formerly 301), Introduction to Broadcast and Digital Journalism. Advanced content will be redistributed across JRN 203 (formerly 307 - Investigative Journalism) and JRN 310 (Mass Communications: Theory and Practice).

To introduce students to the possibilities for a broader scope of communications practice and employment prospects, they are advised to take introductory courses in professional communication arts (two of PR 100 - Foundations of Public Relations; PR 101 – Writing and Editing for Public Relations; and PR 201 – Communications Tools and Techniques). This strengthens writing, editing, and communication skills without duplicating offerings. Similarly, offering INCA 391AA (Investigative and Collaborative Journalism) as a substitute for JRN 202 (formerly JRN 307 - Investigative Journalism) ensures students get important instruction when they need it without duplicating offerings.

Rationale:

First Nations University of Canada already offers a uniquely Indigenous-focused equivalent to a typical two-year journalism and communications program, with its two-year diploma program in Indigenous Communication Arts. The primary difference is that it does not currently build on other Arts courses towards a full degree. This degree will connect the diploma courses to a four-year Arts degree, with a two-year after-degree option for students already holding a Bachelor of Arts. Note that the proposal mainly consolidates courses already in place and regularly offered. It also takes advantage of:

1. A new permanent cross-appointed faculty appointment in INCA and Business Administration.
2. Our organizational relationship to Indigenous Fine Arts, under the program umbrella of Indigenous Communication and Fine Arts.

In response to market demand, the proposed degree strengthens INCA's communications component through required ADMN cognates in organizational and strategic communications. This will ladder-in additional base enrolment, alongside the existing INCA 100- and 200-level courses. Access to the courses would be throughout the four years, requiring a less intensive teaching and learning load than a compressed two-year cohort school model. Additionally, the proposed model allows greater latitude for part-time studies, greatly increasing accessibility for Indigenous students, who are often mature students with families and employment. It will also be accessible to mid-career Indigenous diploma and certificate-holding journalists who are seeking to advance their credentials in a profession that typically requires a university degree as a minimum qualification. It will further FNUniv's goal to "strengthen the University's unique and Indigenous programming and services."

There is a pressing need for such a degree. No less than three national inquiries and commissions have called on media to reconcile their practices and more accurately represent Indigenous peoples and their histories. Further, the Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls Inquiry called on all media and storytelling platforms to more accurately represent Indigenous peoples, particularly women who remain some of the most vulnerable in our country as a result of false stereotypes, which portray them as having less value in our society. Indigenized media is a rapidly expanding social phenomenon that presents myriad opportunities for students to engage with Indigenous communities and understand Indigenous Ways of Knowing. It is also a rapidly expanding professional field, with increased demand for Indigenous content across Canadian media platforms in response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Calls to Action 84 to 86 on Reconciliation and the Media.

Our faculty members currently receive monthly calls seeking to employ Indigenous journalists, as well as Indigenous communications experts and contemporary storytellers. In a survey of media managers, conducted as part of our market study, 80% said their workplace planned to increase Indigenous-focused hiring in the next five years, and 90% reported difficulty finding qualified applicants. Our market study also indicates strong student demand for degree-level certification specific to media and communications in an Indigenous context. There is currently no degree available in Canada that is explicitly focused on Indigenous media, and in particular media in Indigenous languages.

The Bachelor of Arts in Indigenous Journalism and Communication Arts will fill that void by building on and combining our existing diploma program with Arts courses relevant ADMN courses, and by providing additional focus on Indigenous-language media. It will build on its connection to the fine arts as a mode of storytelling, through Indigenous Fine Arts electives, including photography and traditional and visual arts fundamentals. In addition to teaching, the program's related research and service will transform the media landscape by bringing forward new approaches in respectful inquiry and representation of Indigenous stories, through an Indigenous lens.

The program will also provide students wishing to use their storytelling and narrative skills in professional communications fields in Indigenous-run organizations, the public sector, and non-profits. These skills will allow students to work as storytelling communications professionals in everything from treaty negotiations to basic communications for Indigenous communities and development corporations. This will allow Indigenous students to take control of their own stories, and the stories of our communities. For non-Indigenous students, it will give them the skills needed to more effectively represent Indigenous peoples and work in Indigenous communities respectfully.

MOTION: To create the following Bachelor of Indigenous Journalism and Communication Arts After Degree Program, effective 202420.

Bachelor of Indigenous Journalism and Communication Arts (After Degree Program)

Students with a recognized bachelor's degree must apply to the Bachelor of Indigenous Journalism and Communications Arts After-Degree Program. This degree is designed for students with a previous degree who seek a specialization in Indigenous journalism and communications. INCA courses already completed as part of a prior degree in another field will be assessed for recognition of credits as part of the application process.

Recommended courses: INCA 291AA-ZZ or INCA 391AA-ZZ Selected Topics courses.

Rationale:

The Bachelor of Indigenous Journalism and Communication Arts After-Degree program will provide a 72-credit after-degree option for students who hold a degree in another field, in recognition that they have already completed the core Arts undergraduate courses and/or their equivalents in their field of study. It will provide a more appropriate credential than receiving a diploma, bringing the program in line with what other journalism programs in Canada offer to degree holders. The target student population will be degree holders. INCA courses already completed as part of a prior degree in another field will be assessed for recognition of credits toward the Bachelor of Indigenous Journalism and Communication Arts.

2.1.5 Psychology Honours Program Admission Requirements – Revision

MOTION: To revise the Program Grade Point Average (PGPA) and Major Grade Point Average (GPA) admission requirements to the Psychology Honours program, effective 202420.

BA Honours in Psychology

The application process for the Psychology Honours Program is competitive, and admission into the program is not guaranteed.

Application to the Psychology Honours program requires the following:

- A minimum Program GPA of ~~at least 70.00~~ 80.00%;
- A minimum Major GPA of ~~at least 75.00~~ 80.00%;
- Completion of at least 60.0 credit hours;
- Completion of all Arts or Science Core Requirement courses (depending on whether registered in the BA or BSc program, respectively);
- Completion of the Honours Program Application Form (provided on the Department of Psychology website);
- A letter of intent (as described on the Department of Psychology website); and
- Unofficial copies of all undergraduate transcripts.

A student must have successfully completed 90 credit hours, all required PSYC 200-level courses, and Statistics in Psychology (PSYC 305) by August 31 prior to commencing the honours program.

Note that PSYC 405 must either precede or be taken concurrently with PSYC 400, and a minimum grade of 65% in PSYC 305 is needed to register in PSYC 405. Failure to meet these requirements will void the student's acceptance into the Psychology Honours Program, and the student will need to re-apply in a subsequent term.

Applications for the Psychology Honours Program must be submitted to the Department of Psychology by February 1 of the calendar year in which the student intends to enroll in the honours program. ~~The application process for the Psychology Honours Program is competitive, and admission into the program is not guaranteed.~~

Refer to Graduation section for BA Honours graduation requirements and to the Faculty of Science section for BSc Honours graduation requirements.

Rationale:

Setting the Program and Major GPA to 80.00% will reduce the number of applications from students who would not be competitive for admission to graduate and professional programs.

Note: PGPA of 65.00% required to graduate.

Rationale:

These changes align the BIEAD Elementary with the Faculty of Education BEAD programs and make it 60 credit hours. EPSY 322 has been added to the requirement. The other changes are simplifying choices for students. Previously, the Indigenous Language course was a prerequisite for the program but it is now included as part of the program. MATH 101 and INDG 100 are being removed because no other BEAD program requires these courses.

2.3 FACULTY OF KINESIOLOGY AND HEALTH STUDIES

2.3.1 Credit and Non-Credit Micro-Credential in High Performance and Tactical Strength and Conditioning – New Program

MOTION: To create the micro-credential in High Performance and Tactical Strength and Conditioning, for both credit and non-credit delivery, effective 202420.

Micro-credential in High Performance and Tactical Strength and Conditioning

Credit Hours	Course
3.0	KIN 355 – Principles of Strength, Power and Speed Development

2.3.2 Credit and Non-Credit Micro-Credential in Event Production Management – New Program

MOTION: To create the micro-credential in Event Production Management, for both credit and non-credit delivery, effective 202420.

Micro-credential in Event Production Management

Credit Hours	Course
3.0	One of: SRS 132 – Live Event Production and Sport Communication, SRS 133 – Podcasting and Dynamic Storytelling
3.0	Two of: SRS 215 – Volunteer Management, SRS 220 –Program Delivery and Management, SRS 230 – Venue and Event Management
3.0
9.0	Total credit hours
Note: Due to overlap in required courses, Sport and Recreation Management major students are not able to declare this micro-credential.

Rationale for both micro-credentials:

Creation of these credentials recognizes knowledge gained in groupings of courses that together contribute to a depth of knowledge in a niche area valuable to the job market. Recognizing these courses on the transcript as a certificate allows graduates to distinguish themselves to potential employers based on an area of specialization. In addition, each of these courses have a significant experiential learning component that further establishes graduates as having hands-on experience in the area. By offering these courses and certificates as a Non-Credit option serves our post-graduate interns by providing something tangible in terms of formal education combined with significant work experience in the area.

2.4 FACULTY OF MEDIA, ART, AND PERFORMANCE

2.4.1 Diploma in Film Production – Admission Suspension

MOTION: To suspend admission to the Diploma in Film Production, effective 202420.

Rationale:

As of September 2023 the Film Diploma currently has 5 students in it. All but one of the students will be done by Winter 2024, and the one remaining student will be done by Winter 2025. The Diploma will be paused with no curriculum changes forthcoming. The plan is that the 30-credit Certificate in Film Production will replace the 30-credit Diploma in Film Production.

(end of Motion)

2.4.2 Certificate in Film Production – New Program

MOTION: To create a 30-credit hour Certificate in Film Production, effective 202420.

Admission Requirements: Applicants must meet the Faculty of MAP admission requirements and submit a Letter of Intent and digital sample portfolio must be submitted to the Department of Film by April 1 for entrance into the Fall term and October 1 for entrance into the Winter term. The Department of Film highly recommends that students enter the program in the Fall term for the best course flow because courses are tied to terms for sequential learning in the program.

Credit Hours	Certificate in Film Production Required Courses
3.0	One of FILM 100 or ENGL 100 or ACAD 100
3.0	FILM 201
3.0	FILM 202
3.0	FILM 209
6.0	Two of FILM 2XX Studies
3.0	FILM 3XX/4XX Studies
6.0	Two of FILM 2XX/3XX Production
3.0	CTCH 2XX or MAP 2XX or ART 223
30.0	Total – 65.00% GPA Required
Note: Course registration may require permission from the Department Head.

Rationale:

The Certificate in Film Production replaces the Diploma in Film Production. Applicants must meet the Faculty of MAP admission requirements, and submit a letter of intent and digital sample portfolio. This certificate will serve as a recruitment tool and feeder for the Film program and support academic endeavours and enrolment growth at the U of R. This certificate introduces students to the fundamentals of film production and film studies.

2.5 FACULTY OF SCIENCE2.5.1 Bachelor of Science in Psychology Honours Program Eligibility Average – Revisions

MOTION: To revise the Program Grade Point Average and Major Grade Point Average eligibility requirements for the BSc Psychology Honours program to 80.00%, effective 202420.

Rationale:

Psychology receives significantly more applications to its honours program than what the department has the capacity to supervise so its admission requirements need to be made more competitive. For example, in the last two rounds of admissions, the department received 47 and 43 applications when the program has the capacity to accept approximately 25 students. Because the number of applicants far outnumbers the capacity of the department, students with GPAs below 80.00% are rarely admitted. Officially changing the admission requirements to 80.00% will make expectations clearer to prospective honours students.

2.5.2 Bachelor of Science Honours in Computer Science Averages – Revisions

2.6 FACULTY OF SOCIAL WORK2.6.1 Admission Term to the Bachelor of Social Work Program – Revision

MOTION: That newly admitted Bachelor of Social Work students start in the Fall term, effective 202420.

Admission table on page 6 of the 2023-2024 Undergraduate Calendar

SPRING/SUMMER TERM (May-August)
ALL PROGRAMS – FINAL DEADLINE for new applicants, and re-admission deadline for returning students (except those noted below )	April 15	April 15
Bachelor of Social Work (does not include Pre-Social Work)	January 15	January 15
Petition Deadline	March 1	March 1
* The Early Application Deadline is the recommended deadline to ensure best course selection and opportunities for enrolment and other university services such as scholarships, residence, and parking.  Bachelor of Social Work (does not include Pre-Social Work), Indigenous Education, School of Journalism, Nursing do not admit to the spring/summer term. School of Journalism, and Bachelor of Social Work (does not include Pre-Social Work) do not admit to the winter term.  YNTEP follow standard deadlines for "All Programs". The SUNTEP deadline is May 1.

Rationale:

Currently newly admitted students can start the program in the Spring. In recent years, we have observed the students rushing to fit a maximum number of Spring/Summer courses. This creates concerns including: difficulty acclimating to upper level SW courses; difficulty acclimating to pace and intensity of Spring/Summer courses; higher likelihood of faculty probation due to previous points and shorter drop deadlines; competition for seats in SW courses with current BSW students who are further in the program as we have very little pre-requisites that follow a logical sequencing; impact on completion of program for 4th year BSW students as per the previous point and special requests to the Assoc. Dean related to program completion.

The proposed change supports: academic success with a more intentional transition into a professional program; reduces factors that contribute to faculty probation; encourages course sequencing and ladder learning; prioritizes supporting upper level students for degree completion and reduces special permission requests; and better supports the faculty's activities with course scheduling, planning, and enrolment.

Exceptions may be approved for SW 390 to be available for students outside of Regina and Saskatoon and possibly the availability of SW 346 during the spring term.

2.7 CENTRE FOR CONTINUING EDUCATION

2.7.1 Post-Secondary Admission Requirements – Revision

MOTION: To change the admission requirements for applicants based on post-secondary admission criteria, effective 202420.

Current language: Applicants who have attempted 15 credit hours or more of approved post-secondary education must have a minimum AGPA of 60% on all post-secondary courses attempted.

Proposed change:

Applicants who have attempted 15 credit hours or more of approved post-secondary education must have a minimum AGPA of 60% on the most recent 15 credit hours of post-secondary courses attempted.

Rationale:

Most U of R faculties don't base admission decisions on all post-secondary attempted, but instead base admission on the most recent 30 credit hours attempted. We would like to consider only the most recent 15 credit hours, as our demographic can be quite different than the student demographic applying to degree programs. Our students are often older and have returned to study many years after their last post-secondary experience. Often these students will have a vastly different experience with more recent courses and can demonstrate growth in their focus and habits.

Note: This information is found in the Undergraduate Admissions section in the table on page 20 in the Undergraduate Calendar.

Rationale:

It is not currently possible for a student to begin studying French and complete a Bachelor of Arts in the span of four years. With the rise in demand for French-language programs throughout the world, and the end of several Core French programs in Canada, we aim to allow students to enter this program with no prior knowledge of French, and focus on communications skills throughout their degree.

Rationale:

It is not currently possible for a student to begin studying French and complete a Bachelor of Arts in the span of four years. With the rise in demand for French-language programs throughout the world, and the end of several Core French programs in Canada, we aim to allow students to enter this program with no prior knowledge of French, and focus on communications skills throughout their degree.

This honours program is the same as the proposed Bachelor of Arts French as a Second Language, with the addition of major GPA, PGPA and UGPA requirements for graduation and 9 credits in the major. It aims to allow students who hope to continue on to graduate studies or specialize through a dissertation to acquire an honours degree.

2.9 PATHWAY PROGRAM

In October 2020, Senate approved the discontinuation of the Faculty of Arts' involvement in the Pathway Program as a result of the creation of the Faculty of Arts Qualifying Year.

In April 2023, the Faculty of Science forwarded a motion approving the discontinuation of the Faculty of Science's involvement in the Pathway Program as the Faculty of Science has an alternate pathway for students who do not meet the traditional admission criteria (Science Qualifying). Following this, in May 2023, the Faculty of Kinesiology and Health Studies forwarded a motion to approve their discontinuation the Pathway Program as the remaining Faculty involved in the program. It was later discovered that the Faculty of Media, Art, and Performance was erroneously included in the Pathway Program.

The following motion brings the Pathway Program into alignment and formally suspends admission to the program.

MOTION: That the following Faculties be removed from the Pathway Program:

- Faculty of Kinesiology and Health Studies
- Faculty of Media, Art, and Performance
- Faculty of Science

And that admission to the Pathway Program be suspended immediately.

2.9.1 Faculty of Kinesiology and Health Studies

~~The Pathway Program~~

~~Students who do not meet traditional admission criteria may be eligible for admission to the Pathway Program. Applicants to the Faculty of Kinesiology and Health Studies, the Faculty of Science, and the Faculty of Media, Art and Performance will be accepted into the Pathway Program if they do not meet normal admission requirements but meet the requirements stated~~

~~below. Applicants to other faculties may be considered for the Pathway Program on an individual basis. Students accepted to the Pathway Program will experience a highly supported learning environment while receiving access to higher education. The Pathway Program provides a mechanism for students to transition into University so they can be successful in their studies, and enter the program of their choice. Students wishing to transfer faculties will need to meet faculty transfer requirements.~~

Rationale:

The Pathway Program was developed as a transition option for students who have graduated high school between the ages of 17-21 with no other post-secondary and did not attain a high school admission average of 65%. The original faculty participants were Arts, Science and KHS. We have seen very few students admitted through this category in KHS.

The Faculties of Arts, and Science have already approved ceasing admission via the Pathway Program, thus leaving KHS as the only remaining faculty offering this option. It doesn't make sense to have a program that was intended to be far-reaching in the university now offered by only one faculty, and therefore recommend ceasing admission to KHS via the Pathway Program effective Spring/summer 2024 (this effective date was chosen to align with the Undergraduate Calendar publication and policy implementation).

2.9.2 Faculty of Media, Art, and Performance

The Pathway Program

~~Students who do not meet traditional admission criteria may be eligible for admission to the Pathway Program. Applicants to the Faculty of Kinesiology and Health Studies, the Faculty of Science, and the Faculty of Media, Art and Performance will be accepted into the Pathway Program if they do not meet normal admission requirements but meet the requirements stated below. Applicants to other faculties may be considered for the Pathway Program on an individual basis. Students accepted to the Pathway Program will experience a highly supported learning environment while receiving access to higher education. The Pathway Program provides a mechanism for students to transition into University so they can be successful in their studies, and enter the program of their choice. Students wishing to transfer faculties will need to meet faculty transfer requirements.~~

Rationale:

In June 2021, the Senate approved Pathway Program revisions. Erroneously, the motion included the Faculty of Media, Art, and Performance (MAP) in the introductory paragraph. MAP's faculty council never approved inclusion in the Pathway Program.

After consultation with MAP and Enrolment Services, MAP was removed from the Pathway Program paragraph during production of the 2023-2024 Undergraduate Calendar. In April 2023, this error was presented to CCUAS as an item for information. However, "because the Pathway Program was presented and approved at Senate, it is best that any errors are submitted as they were originally approved. MAP cannot be removed from the Pathway Program without a motion being brought forward. (April CCUAS Minutes)."

The motion is being brought forward to ensure good governance and proper documentation of MAP's erroneous inclusion in the Pathway Program.

2.9.3 Faculty of Science

The Pathway Program

~~Students who do not meet traditional admission criteria may be eligible for admission to the Pathway~~

Program. Applicants to the Faculty of Kinesiology and Health Studies ~~and the Faculty of Science~~, will be accepted into the Pathway Program if they do not meet normal admission requirements but meet the requirements stated below. Applicants to other faculties may be considered for the Pathway Program on an individual basis. Students accepted to the Pathway Program will experience a highly supported learning environment while receiving access to higher education. The Pathway Program provides a mechanism for students to transition into University so they can be successful in their studies, and enter the program of their choice. Students wishing to transfer faculties will need to meet faculty transfer requirements.

Rationale:

The Faculty of Science has a mechanism in place for students who do not meet traditional admission criteria. Students who do not meet the traditional admission criteria may be eligible for admission as Science Qualifying students.

2.9.4 The Pathway Program – Undergraduate Calendar Revision

Students who do not meet traditional admission criteria may be eligible for admission to the Pathway Program. Applicants to the Faculty of Kinesiology and Health Studies will be accepted into the Pathway Program if they do not meet normal admission requirements but meet the requirements stated below. Applicants to other faculties may be considered for the Pathway Program on an individual basis. Students accepted to the Pathway Program will experience a highly supported learning environment while receiving access to higher education. The Pathway Program provides a mechanism for students to transition into University so they can be successful in their studies, and enter the program of their choice. Students wishing to transfer faculties will need to meet faculty transfer requirements.
