

Members of the University community,

The University of Regina continues to demonstrate great resilience as our students, faculty, and staff contribute to keeping each other – and our communities – safe and healthy. These individual and team contributions, both big and small, play an important part in our shared future.

For your Board of Governors, contributing to our shared future includes continuing the search for the University's next President. The role of the President is vital to the reputation, academic and operational success of the University and our search process has been thoughtfully designed to welcome input from many individuals and teams as, together, we seek the best candidate for this important role.

The individuals named to the Search Advisory Committee, who will be formally introduced in the coming days, represent faculty, staff, students, and alumni. This committee will contribute to the presidential search process – as well, many other individuals will also be consulted and will support this team and this work.

As individual students, faculty, staff, and community members, you, too, are part of the presidential search process – and we want to hear from you. We invite you to share your views through an online survey that will help the Search Advisory Committee determine the skills, qualities, and values most desired in the next leader of our University. To participate, please complete the online survey here: <https://www.uregina.ca/presidential-search/search-process/consultation.html> by June 5, 2020.

As your Board Chair, I will continue to provide you with regular updates. I appreciate your interest, and your contributions, as we continue this important work.

Thank you for your ongoing commitment to the University of Regina.

Sincerely,

Roger Brandvold
Chair, University of Regina Board of Governors
