

Your Guide to Understanding the Fall 2021 Class Schedule

The following information will help you interpret the Fall 2021 class schedule. Please note that the following examples are snapshots of what you will see in the Visual Schedule Builder system. If you are using UR Self-Service to search for courses, you will see the same information as in the examples below but in a different format.

A full list of those courses that are being offered on-site in the Fall 2021 term can be viewed here.

Online (Web) Delivered Courses

Some courses have undergone a formal online delivery development process that includes enhancements designed to support instruction and learning in an online environment.

These supports include UR Courses and many other multi-media enhancements. These courses are designated as Web-delivered classes as seen in the example below. Most Web-delivered courses will not have scheduled meeting times, but some do, which will be shown in the class section selected.

In the example below, the course is being offered online and will have some mandatory meeting times students are required to attend via Zoom.
