What is the Academic Catalogue?

The academic catalogue is the University of Regina’s inventory of academic programs and courses. It helps the intended audience understand what programs and courses are available, what the expectations are for a student to complete a program, what a student can expect to learn in a course, and so on. Changes and additions to the catalogue are often necessary and it is imperative that the information published is current and accurate. This guide has been developed to help Faculties, Departments, and Academic Units at the University of Regina understand the processes and procedures for making changes and additions to the academic catalogue.

Note: For the purposes of this guide the term academic unit refers to the Faculty, Department, Federated College, or Academic Unit responsible for the course or program.

A Snapshot of the University of Regina’s Governance

The University's governance structure is established by The University of Regina Act and is bicameral - simply put, there is one decision stream for academic decisions and another for administrative ones.

Decisions on academic programs and related matters generally originate in the academic unit, are reviewed by a University academic committee, are considered by Executive of Council (E of C) on behalf of the University's Faculty Council, and then are decided upon by Senate.

Issues requiring administrative decisions may originate almost anywhere, and the Board of Governors makes major final administrative decisions, particularly where significant expenditures are concerned. The two streams often come together at the Board; for example, Senate decisions regarding establishment of new or major expansions of academic units and programs or major changes are subject to ratification by the Board of Governors.

This guide focuses on decisions on the academic side that are specifically related to programs, courses, and academic regulations. More information on the University of Regina’s governance structure can be found on the Office of the President’s Governance web page.

What is the Council Committee on Undergraduate Admissions and Studies (CCUAS)?

CCUAS is a committee of Council that is responsible for advising Council and Executive of Council on academic programs, policy, regulations and standards at the undergraduate level. The terms of reference for CCUAS can be found here: http://www.uregina.ca/student/registrar/assets/docs/pdf/ccuas/2015/terms.pdf

Understanding Effective Dates

Effective dates are necessary so that students can follow the program requirements that are in place at the time of their admission, and so that courses are accurately reflected with what courses students register in and complete.

The University of Regina has three terms. Each are specified with the year:
- Term 10 – winter (201910 for the 2019 Winter Term)
- Term 20 – spring/summer (201920 for the 2019 Spring/Summer Term)
- Term 30 – fall (201930 for the 2019 Fall Term)

The effective date for a new course or a change to an existing course is generally specified for a future term where class registration has not yet commenced.

The effective date for a program is generally specified for the next fall catalogue term. A catalogue term determines the program template that a student will follow through to graduation.

Deadlines for submission to CCUAS are:

More information on deadlines is contained in the next section “Submission Planning Cycle”.

Submission Planning Cycle

The table below will assist you in planning your catalogue needs. Your planning will need to take into consideration approval by your academic unit council and the agenda deadline for the associate CCUAS meeting.

CCUAS Submission Format

Submissions for the inclusion on the CCUAS agenda must be submitted in a Word document. The appropriate font is Times New Roman 11 point and there can be no text boxes. A template for the agenda item submissions can be found in Appendix A. Submissions that are not in the correct format will be returned to the Academic unit.

Agenda items may be submitted to ccuas.ccuas@uregina.ca

Courses

This section of the guide focuses on the processes associated with changing, adding, inactivating a course, making a course historical, and reactivating a course. Appendix B has a checklist for the level of approval that is required for courses.

New Course

A new course is one that does not currently exist in the University of Regina’s course catalogue.

Effective Date

The effective date of a new course must be made for a future term where registration has not yet opened and should reflect the term in which the course will be offered. For example, a motion would not be made with an effective date for term 20 when the course will not be opened until term 30.

Note: Because a new course that has been submitted for information can be brought to the table for discussion, a new course request will not be processed by the Registrar’s Office until after the CCUAS meeting.

</tbody>

Timing

New courses should be planned at least one year in advance of the anticipated opening of the course to allow time for approval by the academic unit’s Council and for cataloguing, scheduling and registration.

Process

1. If the new course will result in changes to existing program regulations within and outside of the academic unit, the program regulations changes will also need to be approved (see Program Change section of the document).
2. If the new course has impact outside of the academic unit, consult with the academic unit(s) the change will impact.
3. The Registrar’s Office is consulted to ensure the assigned subject code and course numbers do not conflict with information that already exists in the system.
4. The admissions and studies committee of the academic unit reviews the new course and recommends approval.
5. The council of the academic unit reviews the new course and has final approval authority.
6. The new course is submitted to CCUAS for information. A template for the agenda item submissions can be found in Appendix A.

Sub Process

A new course may impact the published degree regulations of other programs. For this reason, once a new course is approved it should also be made to the program regulations of all programs the change impacts. See Program Change process.
Non-substantive change to an existing course

Unless a change in a course description is so radical as to constitute a new course or will alter degree regulation requirements, a non-substantive change to a course is normally approved by an academic unit’s course/program development committee or the associate dean as the case may be. These kinds of changes are generally made as housekeeping items and can include:

- A change to course titles. (Not changing the context.)
- A change of grade modes.
- A change to the schedule type of the course.*
- Typographical errors.*

Effective Date

The effective date of a non-substantive change will be for the next available term in which students are not yet registered. Typographical errors can be submitted for immediate processing.

Process

1. A non-substantive change is brought forward through to the academic unit admissions and studies committee for approval. The background information (rationale) for the motion should include a copy of the change.

2. A non-substantive change is taken to the academic unit’s council for information.

3. Once approved, a Course Inventory Form - Undergraduate is submitted to the Registrar’s Office for processing. There is no need to submit the non-substantive change to CCUAS for information. Changes to course titles, grade modes, and schedule types will be made to the next term where registration has not yet commenced.

Note: Typographical errors and changes to schedule type do not need the approval of the academic unit council and can be made by submitting a course inventory form.

Process Flow
Substantive Change to a Course

A substantive change to a course is one that significantly alters the course. This kind of change usually results from one or a combination of the following:

- A substantive change in the course description and/or content of the course.
- A change in the number and type of credit hours of the course (from 3 to 6, or 6 to 3 for example) or addition of hours.
- A change in the course that alters the program templates of one or more programs.
- A change or addition of course attributes.
- A change to prerequisites, corequisites, equivalent courses, mutually exclusive courses, or restrictions.

A substantive change may impact the published degree regulations of programs outside of the academic unit responsible for the course. For this reason consideration must be given to what program regulations the change will impact and consultation with other academic units is essential if the change impacts the programs of other units.

Program regulations that are impacted by a course change will need to be brought forward for approval at the same time. Refer to the Program Change process for further details.

Example: If WXYZ 100 is a required course in the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Business Administration programs, and the credit value of that course changes from 3 credit hours to 6 credit hours, then the regulations of all three programs will need to change. For this reason, it is important to determine what programs the substantive change will impact before taking the course change forward for approval.

Effective Date

The effective date of a substantive change must be made for a future registration term that has not yet opened for student registration. If the change involves a change to program regulations, it would be made in accordance with the effective date information in the appropriate Program Change process section of this document.

Timing

Substantive course changes should be planned at least one year in advance of the anticipated change.

Process

1. Consider the impact the change has on existing program regulations within and outside of the academic unit.
2. If the change has impact outside of the academic unit, consult with the academic unit(s) the change will impact.
3. The admissions and studies committee of the academic unit reviews the change.
4. The council of the academic unit reviews the change.
5. The course change is submitted to CCUAS for information. A template for the agenda item submissions can be found in Appendix A.

Sub Process

A substantive change may impact the published degree regulations of other programs. For this reason, once a substantive change is approved it should also be made to the program regulations of all programs the change impacts. See Program Change process.
Variable and Experimental Content Courses (AA to ZZ series)

Most departments offer a variety of topic courses for which the content and credit hours are announced each semester. These courses may be repeated for credit by a student with a change in content. Variable and experimental content courses are identified with a series AA-ZZ behind the course number (i.e., SW 480AC). These courses are required to have a base course (i.e., SW 480) approved as a new course (see the New Course section of this document). Base courses are never scheduled, only the series courses. When a base course is made inactive or historical, all courses in that series will be inactivated or made historical.

Variable and experimental courses require the approval of the council of the academic unit. Setting up the experimental course within a series requires the completion of a Course Inventory Form – New Course tab, identifying the title and description of the course and the remaining items should be entered to match the base course (i.e., grade mode, attributes, credit hours, and schedule types). If prerequisites and/or corequisites are attached to the base course, then they will be attached to all courses in the series. If there are no prerequisites and/or corequisites on the base course then they can be assigned to the series courses as needed.

Variable and experimental content courses can be scheduled in the InfoSilem Data Collection Utility (DCU).
Course Schedule Types

The delivery of instruction often requires educational material to be organized and presented to students in a variety of ways. In order to facilitate the planning for and scheduling of classes to accommodate these multiple types of instruction, it is necessary to divide courses into organizational parts which reflect the unique combinations of instructors, meeting places, and time patterns used to conduct the instruction. Courses can have one or many schedule types. Available schedule types and their descriptions follow.

Inactivating a Course

A course is inactivated when it is being temporary closed for registration. The reasons for inactivating a course can be one or a combination of the following:

- the course content requires revision;
- the content is specialized and there is a temporary unavailability of faculty to teach the course;
- funds to offer the course are temporarily unavailable; or
- the course has not been offered in five or more years.

Note 1: A core course should never be made inactive without a replacement course or alternative course that students can take to fulfil their degree requirements.

Note 2: Inactivating a course does not prohibit an academic unit from reactivating the course (see course reactivation).

Note 3: Before inactivating a course, an academic unit needs to ensure that other degree programs are not impacted by the inactivation so that other academic units can make the necessary changes to their programs.
Effective Date
The effective date to inactivate a course should be for the subsequent fall term where registration has not yet opened.

Timing
Course inactivation should be submitted prior to the January CCUAS meeting.

Process
1. The Registrar’s Office will provide a list of courses each October that have not been offered in five or more years.
2. If the inactivation of a course will result in changes to existing program regulations within and outside of the academic unit, the program regulations changes will also need to be approved (see Program Change section of the document).
3. If the inactivation of a course has impact outside of the academic unit, the academic unit initiating the inactivation will consult with the academic unit(s) the change will impact.
4. The admissions and studies committee of the academic unit reviews the course inactivation and recommends approval.
5. The council of the academic unit reviews the new course inactivation and has final approval authority.
6. CCUAS receives the course inactivation for information. The agenda submission must include a list of courses to be inactivated for the following fall term.

Making a Course Historical
A course is made historical when it is being closed for registration permanently. The reasons for making a course historical can be one or a combination of the following:

- the course content is no longer relevant;
- the course has been replaced with a more modern version of the course;
- the content is specialized and there is permanent unavailability of faculty to teach the course;
- funds to offer the course have been suspended or eliminated;
- a series course that now has a permanent offering; or
- the course has been inactive for five years or longer.

Note 1: A core course should never be made historical without a replacement course or alternative course that students can take to fulfill their degree requirements.

Effective Date
The effective date to make a course historical should be for the subsequent fall term where registration has not yet opened.

Timing
Historicized courses should be submitted prior to the January CCUAS meeting.

Process
1. If making a course historical will result in changes to existing program regulations within and outside of the academic unit, the program regulations changes will also need to be approved (see Program Change section of the document).
2. If the making a course historical has impact outside of the academic unit, the academic unit requesting the change will consult with the academic unit(s) the change will impact. The admissions and studies committee of the academic unit reviews the course that is being made historical and recommends approval.
3. The council of the academic unit reviews the course that is being made historical and has final approval authority.
4. CCUAS receives the course that is being made historical for information. The agenda submission must include a list of courses to be inactivated for the following fall term.

Course Reactivation
A course can be reactivated when it has been closed temporarily (inactive).

Effective Date
The effective date to reactivate a course should be for a future registration term where registration has not yet opened.

Timing
The reactivation of a course should be planned at least one year prior to a course being made active.

Process
1. If reactivating a course will result in changes to existing program regulations within and outside of the academic unit, the program regulations changes will also need to be approved (see Program Change section of the document).
2. If reactivating a course has impact outside of the academic unit, the academic unit initiating the change will consult with the academic unit(s) the change will impact.

Programs
This section of the guide will be useful for individuals interested in developing and launching a new program or proposing a program modification (i.e., changes to the program title, adding or changing majors, concentrations, minors, changes to admission requirements, changes to program regulations, etc.).

New Program
Developing a new program is a substantial undertaking and should be planned well in advance of the anticipated opening of the program for admission. In all cases, when a new program is being considered, it should have the support of the Dean or Director of the academic unit and the Provost.

When developing a new program, it is advisable to establish a program advisory committee. If an advisory committee is established the team should include various members within an academic unit and, whenever possible, one or two academic members outside of the academic unit. There may also be times when inviting a representative from outside of the University is appropriate.

The advisory committee will need to consider:
- the credential that graduates will receive;
- the admission requirements for the program;
- the program description;
- the program of study including the mode(s) of delivery and all program completion requirements;
- a draft of the course descriptions for courses in the program that will be under development and/or the names of existing courses that can be used to fulfill the program completion requirements;
- the graduation requirements for the program;
- a needs analysis;
- applicant demand;
- indication of any accreditation, certification or licensing requirements;
- alignment with the University’s and the faculty, department, or academic units strategic priorities; and
- cost analysis including any additional resources that may be required to implement the program.

The Council Committee on Academic Mission and Executive of Council approved processes and templates are used for the submission of new programs.

https://www.uregina.ca/student/registrar/faculty-staff/program_development_resources.html

Effective Date
The effective date of a new program should be for a future admission term where admission has not yet opened. Student admission to a program is normally made to a fall term, even though the application to the program occurs before then.

Timing
The timing and planning of the new program needs to take into consideration the length of time it takes for program development and the approval processes. The planning for a new program should start about 18 months to 2 years before the first admissions to the program will take place. An important consideration in the timing would be to plan for how recruitment to your program would be impacted by your program opening date.
Faculty Council | CCUAS Meeting Date | CCAM & CCB Meeting Date | Executive of Council Meeting Date | Senate Meeting Date | Effective Date
--- | --- | --- | --- | --- | ---
No later than October | November to allow for time that may be required IF the program needs CCAM or CCB approval. | Need approval prior to E of C January agenda deadline IF approval is required. | January | February | Term 30 of the upcoming year.

Note: A new program proposal can be submitted at any time throughout the year, but proposals that are received after the CCUAS November agenda deadline will be recommended for opening in Term 30 of the next available academic year (for example, a proposal received in December of 2016 would have a recommended opening of 201830).

New or Substantially Modified Core Requirements or Major of an Existing Program

When a new major is proposed, or when substantial modifications are being proposed to a current major, the process flow is basically the same as that of a new program but do not require the consideration of CCAM or CCB.

Program Changes

Changing Admission and Graduation Requirements

Changes to admission and graduation requirements include but are not limited to:
- changing the minimum high school average required for admission;
- changing the high school courses required for admission;
- changing the minimum transfer GPA and/or credit hours required for admission;
- changing the number of credit hours required for completion; or
- changing specific regulations that apply to the program (minimum GPA for example).

Non-Substantive Program Changes

Non-substantive program changes may include one or more of the following:
- replacing courses that are planned to be made inactive or historical with new or existing courses;
- adding a course(s) to an existing list of requirements;
- moving an existing course from one area of course completion requirements to another;
- making an existing minor available within a program;
- adding a co-op route to an existing program; or
- creating a new minor.

Effective Date

The effective date of a program change should be for a future admission term where admission has not yet opened. Student admission to a program is normally made to a fall term, even though the application to the program occurs before then.

Timing

Substantive program changes and changes to admission and graduation requirements require the approval of the academic unit, CCUAS, Executive of Council, and Senate, so the timing and planning needs to consider the length of time of the approval processes. These kinds of changes should start at least 18 months before the first admission will take place. Whenever possible, all changes to a program should be bundled and brought forward at the same time. This would include the approval of new courses, courses that are going to be made inactive or historical, and any other changes. If course additions and/or changes impact other programs, these too should be brought forward.

Example 2: Changing Specific Course Regulations

Residency and Transfer Credit
A maximum of 60 hours of eligible transfer credit may be applied to a degree program and 30 hours of eligible transfer credit to a certificate program. Students must take at least 15 of the last 30 credit hours of their degree program at the University of Regina. As well, at least half the credit hours of required discipline courses for the major and/or minor must be completed at the University of Regina.

Example 3: Changing Admission Requirements

Admission to the University
Students who have attempted fewer than 24 credit hours of university courses will be admitted based on the high school admission criteria. Students who have attempted 24 or more credit hours of university courses must have a minimum university grade point average of 60% or a completed baccalaureate degree.
Name Change of Faculty or Department
The creation of and/or change to an existing faculty, department, or academic unit must be approved by the University of Regina Senate. These kinds of changes require careful consideration and planning. For example, a change to the name of a faculty can impact thousands of courses, programs, and student records and require a significant financial investment in rebranding.

A proposal to change the name of, or to merge one or more, faculties, departments, or academic units must contain the following:
- proposed name of faculty, department, or academic unit;
- planned implementation date;
- rationale;
- evidence that meetings have been held with the Registrar’s Office, the Office of Resource Planning, and Financial Services to gather data on the institutional implications of the change or merger;
- organizational and program changes that will result from the change or merger including a strategy and plan on how those changes will be implemented and managed and how any associated risks or issues will be mitigated;
- resource implications, including rebranding costs, as a result of the change or merger; and
- the results of the vote of the faculty members within the faculty, department, or academic unit impacted.

Process
1. Develop proposal.
2. Consult with faculty members impacted.
4. The council committee of the academic unit reviews the proposal and recommends approval to E of C.
5. E of C reviews the proposal and recommends approval to Senate.
6. Senate reviews the proposal and has final academic approval authority.
7. Board of Governors approval is required for the creation of a new faculty.
